Continued This Term.

Professor Arto Bates, head of the English Department, stated today that the special English course for freshmen on THE TECH will not be given during the first term of the school year. Doubtless many of the freshmen will be interested to know that the Institute last year arranged a special course in English, which could be substituted for the regular course in the curriculum.

The work in the course consisted primarily of instruction in journalism, and of writing news articles for the Institute daily paper. A certain amount of work is required of all the members of the special class, and credit is given for the quality and quantity of work done. Last year enough men entered the course to warrant its continuance throughout the last term, and the work done was of considerable benefit to the men as well as to THE TECH.

The course is conducted by Professor Bates personally, and he made the course extremely interesting and instructive last year. Professor Bates stated that the course could not be substituted during the first term for the reason that the regular first term course in English and logic was absolutely essential, and had to be taken by all first year men.

The Cross-Country Team will shortly be chosen. Many men are in training with a view to securing a place on this team.

The firms who advertise in THE TECH are good firms to deal with. Please mention the paper when dealing with them.
