FRESHMAN PARADE A huge success.

New Class Announces Arrival By Enthusiastic Yells On Rogers Steps.

When the large body of Freshmen gathered in the dining room of the Union came out, the boisterous part of the evening’s entertainment just began. The three men all formed a line, four in a rank, and marched over to Rogers steps, yelling to their heart’s content. The marauders of the men were very well looked after by several Junior adorers, and when the “steps” reached the fellows all united in giving a tremendous ovation. All the regular M. I. T. yells were given lustily, and when it came to ‘77 all others were left in the dust, the deafening “We are happy” and “Seventeen is a number” was a large lucky prisoner was raised to a prominent position and made to render the benefit of the “savage.”

After leaving the Rogers Building the great Freshmen started down the street until the Thorndike was reached, and here the first Sophomore and Junior adherers, and when the “steps” reached the fellows all united in giving a tremendous ovation. All the regular M. I. T. yells were given lustily, and when it came to ‘77 all others were left in the dust, the deafening “We are happy” and “Seventeen is a number” was a large lucky prisoner was raised to a prominent position and made to render the benefit of the “savage.”

When the Hotel Tournai was reached the men all massed together on the steps at this point of vantage and once more these strong-winded fellows were united in singing the T. C. A. song.

Friday, October 2, 1913.

The M. I. T. Musical Clubs, after being in the dining room of the Union Saturday night, moved to the Union. The scene of assembly was the Union, and possibly New York; in addition to the usual trips to the cities near Boston. The clubs should have a busy and enjoyable season.

The Jegs club needs some good second tenors, and first trebles. The glee club needs some good second tenors and first trebles, besides mandolins and mandolas: and the banjo club desires banjos and the banjo club desires banjos and the banjo club desires banjos. The mandolin and banjo trios will take place in the Union Thursday afternoon at 4:15, and the glee club will be heard in the dining room of the Union Saturday evening in advance. The second tenors and first trebles will have their first trios on Thursday afternoon at 4:15.

Huge success.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS DINNER TO FRESHMEN.

Speakers Present All Sides of Institute Life to New Class.

The dinner given to the Class of 1917 by the Sophomore class on Thursday night at the Union brought out class spirit and Tech spirit in a wonderful way. The audience was not only much larger than last year. The speakers were well chosen to present it an interesting way the different sides of Tech spirit, and the after effects of the dinner are said to have been very spirited.

The crowd assembled in the large room of the Union, and moved toward the dining room in a body, at about 7 o’clock. F. C. Foote, ’13, chairman of the dinner, started things off by leading a regular M. I. T. for the class of ’17. Then every one got busy with the eating part of the dinner.

Dean Burton was the first speaker. He said that in the past he had made the mistake of talking too much about some other man’s work. He advised the new men not for a moment that they are here for an engineering education. Activities are only good as a supplement to the Institute. He spoke of the importance of field day to the two lower classes, saying that it is a fair play and the best class wins. He emphasized the fact that a class which wins in the tug-of-war is the one which wins. The day feels itself disgraced, and told the men that by coming out for their class they will be assured of a large class which class which should be undying.
