SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1913.

The lack of interest which the Sophomores are displaying in their preparations for Field Day cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed by the Institute at large. We wonder whether second-year men understand the nature and meaning of this occasion; whether they realize that they are being watched by outsiders and Alumni as well as by the other undergraduate classes.

The contests on Field Day consist of something more than a number of men pulling on a rope, or butting violently into each other, or running around a track. Field Day is a big day at the Institute—the biggest clay around a track. Field Day is a big contest of something more than a number of graduate classes. Alumni as well as by the other undergraduate classes.

An important meeting of the Executive Committee of the Chemical Society was held at 5 o'clock yesterday in the Union. The proposed dinner to be given in two weeks was discussed and the date set for Friday, the 24th. Members of the Chemistry Faculty will be present.

A regular meeting of the Society will be held next Friday, the 17th, in the Union. Professor Norris of Simmons College will be the speaker. The treasurer announces that membership does of one dollar are now due, and he would be glad to have the fellows pay up as soon as possible.

INSTITUTE COMMITTEE

The Point System Committee reported that notices of elections of officers had been received from only two societies and that the work of checking up the points carried by different men could not be carried very far until more societies had sent in their notifications.

By an amendment to the By-Laws the Calendar Committee was abolished, with the idea that its duties could be more easily performed by the Union Committee. H. I. Knowles and G. E. Whitwell were appointed on a committee to secure identification cards for the men who solicit advertisements for the student activities. R. D. Salisbury and T. F. Spear were appointed to the committee for the promotion of friendly relations with the Musical Club to take the places of Wyman and Chase who have left the Institute.

A motion was passed to arrange for the sale of a number of 1910 Technikens, so as not to absolutely waste the books. It was also decided to distribute a large number of copies of the new Undergraduate Constitution to the freshmen.

Better ventilation in the Physics shop would be appreciated by many.
