1914 Joy Ride

Tickets Ready

Will Be Sold In Union Today At Ten Cents Each—Big Time Promised.

The Committee in charge of the Senator arrangements for Field Day will be in the Union today at 1 P. M. ready to sell tickets for the 1914 Joy Ride. The tickets are ten cents each. They hope that there will be an enthusiastic crowd of men waiting in line for this pleasure. The small fee charged includes transportation to and from the Field in special cars, sweet music for several hours, and the distinctive 1914 regalia. All this is offered for the same price as the trip would cost by the ordinary cars. The Committee says nothing about the charge for the cheerleading and the good fellowship, but it is presumed that these will be free. The man who has paid his ten cents needs only his ticket to the Field to take in all events of the afternoon. The Committee is certain that ev'ry 1914 man should be with his class on that day.

The initial meeting of those interested in developing the committee for the next year's team will be called to order at the Institute Memorial Building at 2 P. M. on Monday afternoon. To make this meeting worthwhile it is requested that all lprospective candidates report before it is called to order.

The Committee requests all men who are interested to go after eleven to find a copy, and to be present at the meeting whether he intends to be at the Field or not.

NEW SITE SPECIAL

Big Eight-Page Issue Saturday To Be Full Of Surprises.

Saturday at eleven appears the first complete head-sure dope on the new site, its building, its past, its present, and its future. To make the issue of permanent value there will be photos and plans of the layout of the grounds, in particular a ground plan of the exact location and use of each building. This issue will contain the most important real estate news that has occurred around the Institute since Mr. "Smith" gave us two millions and a half for these new buildings, and facts of greater interest to Tech men are not expected before the first class enters.

To give every man a chance to get Special it will be on sale Saturday by so many men of prominence in Tech affairs that no man will have far to go for a address—two cents and a copy, and to get rid of his dues.

Just as something more, there will be a complete story of Field Day—Joy Field Day Night, with cuts and criticism of more than usual interest.

Michigan Aggie is causing quite a stir in western football circles, having already defeated many of the Conference teams.

HONEYMOON EXPRESS

AR instrument(s)AVES IN BOSTON

A Spectacular Musical Play—Cast and Chorus Give Much Amusement.

With a rush and a flourish the "Honeymoon Express" arrived in Boston last Monday evening preceding the Winter Garden Company and the National Band. The electric musical play of acts and six scenes. From the time the first curtain rises on the opening chorus' decayed 'The Visitors Tour,' until it finally falls after the finale, the audience is treated to one continuous round of humor, dance and song. The plot, or what there is of it, hinges upon divorce complications of Henri Dubonnet and his wife Yvonne, which come to a climax in a wild auto chase to Reval after the "Honeymoon Express." Here the notion picture is effectively employed, while the "melodrama" of the chase is shown by a remarkable bit of stage management which shows the heads of the auto in line and the locomotive gradually approaching until the life is cut short. Like moreover actually situated on station platform and the exciting race is over. A general mix-up of identities follows which is finally cleared off and ended to the satisfaction of all.

The parts were all very well played. Al Jolson as "Gus," the conductor at Dubonnet's provoked no end of laughter, while he is usually a star of the show. Another of the plays turned on a provocation to the audience to place flowers upon the relics of the deceased. The audience rose to its feet with many courtesies. There was also a scene of the audience refreshing itself with Coca-Cola, which was chiefly because of the performance of Al Jolson. The audience was thoroughly satisfied with the performance and gave their approval with many encores for the cast.

The "New York Times" called the "Honeymoon Express" a wild auto chase to Rouen after the Motor Race, which come to a climax in a wild auto chase to Reval after the "Honeymoon Express." The audience rose to its feet with many courtesies. There was also a scene of the audience refreshing itself with Coca-Cola, which was chiefly because of the performance of Al Jolson.
