ANAPOLIS ENTRANCE
EXAMS TO BE HELD
Candidates To See The District Secretary In Post Office Building.
Congressman Dietrick will hold a preliminary examination for entrance to the Naval Academy at Annapolis in the rooms of the Civil Service Commission in the Boston Postoffice Building on Jan. 7, 1914. This examination will be open to young men who will have passed their sixteenth but not their twentieth birthday on Feb. 14, 1914, and who are residents of the Sixth Massachusetts Congressional District, comprising the following cities and towns: Arlington, Bedford, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown, Cambridge, Lexington, Medford and Winchester. Candidates should apply in person to E. F. Stobhain, District Secretary, Room 141 Postoffice Building, Boston, Mass., where arrangements will be made for their examination without expense. Only those physically qualified will be permitted to enter the preliminary examination, the subjects of which are: algebra, geometry, grammar, geography, U. S. History and general history. The first three subjects will be given in the forenoon and the third latter in the afternoon, three hours being allowed for each group. An intermission of one hour at noon will be allowed for lunch.
