THE Y. M. C. A. OFFER

We know that Tech men will feel grateful for the privileges which the Boston Y. M. C. A. is extending to them. With its new building and superb equipment, there is no doubt that the organization is far the best of its kind, which is within the reach of Institute students, and its is set to say that their appreciation of the offer will soon be made apparent. Too many of us neglect these things. Too much of our drift along by ourselves, especially if we come from a distance, without ever trying to find out the good things which the city of Boston has to offer, and without the comradeship of other young men which ought to be fostered, not alone among our fellow-students, but also with the outsiders whom we chance to meet in social and other ways.

We are told by Mr. Talbot that these additional Y. M. C. A. privileges are being extended to us largely through the courtesy of Mr. C. W. Mahaffy, the General Secretary in this city. To Mr. Mahaffy we desire to express our gratitude for this in- terest in us. We feel safe in assuring him that Institute men will benefit by the privilege in ways and in numbers which will make his Association an instrument of more extended benefit than before.

LATIN-AMERICA

We are in sympathy with the view-point of Mr. Talbot, and believe that the relations between South America and the United States are being constantly improved. It is undoubtedly true, and business and—which is of greater concern to us—profession al relations, are becoming constantly

SCIENTIFIC AND ENGINEERING NOTES

For several months past some of the leading gold-mining companies of the Rand have been conducting experiments in electric blasting in order to test the theory that this method will result in much saving in mining it is now the fine dust from blasting—accepted as the most direct cause of miner’s cancer—will be obtained at a distance, without ever trying to find out the good things which the city of Boston has to offer, and without the comradeship of other young men which ought to be fostered, not alone among our fellow-students, but also with the outsiders whom we chance to meet in social and other ways.

We are told by Mr. Talbot that these additional Y. M. C. A. privileges are being extended to us largely through the courtesy of Mr. C. W. Mahaffy, the General Secretary in this city. To Mr. Mahaffy we desire to express our gratitude for this interest in us. We feel safe in assuring him that Institute men will benefit by the privilege in ways and in numbers which will make his Association an instrument of more extended benefit than before.

Tables For Steel Detailing And Designing

By J. A. Purcell, C. E., A. S. C. E. ING.

These Tables are for the draftsmen and design engineers of steel structures compiled from the American Bridge Co.'s tabular book of standards, with new added material. It is just the book for the detailer, designer, architect and engineer and steel engi- neer, and will enable you to get a complete and accurate drawing on paper in minutes. Formulas and tables are given, containing the work of over 30 years' experience and a complete handbook and catalog of objects and equipment. The book is fully indexed, and any table or diagram is readily consulted to the draftsman's aid.
