TECH MONTHLY

is printed in full, and the winner of the contest simultaneously announced. Although the contest was decided more than a week ago, no announcement has been made of the outcome. The judges found considerable difficulty in selecting the winning story on account of the high merit of several of the entries.

In accordance with the great number of requests made to the Editors, the May issue of the Monthly includes a review of four of the professional societies of The Institute, the other to be published in a later issue.

In the May Monthly will be put on sale in all buildings Tuesday, at which time those who have subscription cards can obtain their copies by present card. All other subscribers will receive their copies by mail. Single copies may be purchased for twenty-five cents and subscriptions can be obtained for $1.00 including the eight consecutive issues starting from date of purchase.

FINAL JUNIOR PROM ARRANGEMENTS TODAY

Committee Wishes To Meet Men
Who Have Not Paid Up in Union Today.

Today final arrangements will be made for the Junior Prom, and all men who have signed and not paid us are requested to meet the committee today, so that the men in charge of the affair will know whether they can expect them to attend or not to be at great inconvenience to the committee and prompt attention to it will be very much appreciated by them.

It will be necessary to show tickets in order to obtain admittance to the hall. The tickets are to be surrendered upon entering the dining room and it is therefore absolutely necessary for every man who has not done so to redeem his receipt for tickets today, Monday or Tuesday. The committee will be in the Union from one o'clock on these days.

Attention is called to the fact that men should not wait until the night of the Prom to obtain their tickets and program, as the men in charge will be very busy at this time and anyone who delays the matter until then will find it very difficult to find a member of the committee. The directions will be printed in this tech and will be posted at the entrance of those who did not receive a direction slip.

NORTHAMPTON TRIP

There are always a number of Tech students who accompany the Show on its various trips and provision has been made for them this year. A special rate of $4.22 for the Northampton round trip is offered. Further particulars may be obtained at the Show Office in the Union.

CONCRETE POURED AT NEW BUILDINGS

First Concrete Poured Monday Noon—Work Progressing Rapidly.

Yesterday at noon the first run of concrete on the new site flowed from the elevator to the footing trenches. The place which was ready is the center of the east outside wall of the department of general studies. This is at the farther edge of the construction district nearly a thousand feet from Massachusetts Avenue, and back two or three hundred feet from the Back Bay.

While this is the first point at which the foundation upon the piles has been started, other parts are so well along that five days will be pouring cement before the end of the month, and when this is well in progress the buildings will rise quickly.
