SPRING MEET (Continued from Page One)

- April 25, 1914.
  - The entire regiment with the exception of the band will hold itself under liability of immediate embarkation for Mexico. After further notice they will join the Fourth Division of the Atlantic Fleet at Charleston. Before tomorrow afternoon each man should apply to the regimental adjutant for an order on A. D. MacLachlan, the Boylston Street "Bannerman" for an entirely new outfit of usable equipment.

- The present excitement will recall to many of the less studious students, who were in the Institute at that time, that at the opening of the Spanish-American War it was planned to send the Regiment (then only a couple of companies and a drum major) to the aid of the United States army in Cuba. In THE TECH of April 28, 1898, the full account of the incident may be obtained. At a mass meeting held just sixteen years ago today it was decided to send the brave members of the Class of 1901 (then Freshmen), and although the "Tech nightbirds" did not go after all to Tampico, it was a fitting proof of the classic spirit demonstrated.

- At that time it was thought best to organize a company of engineers for field work but the present situation is to send the cadets to Tampico for the purpose of showing the regular army just how drill should be conducted. The last review held before the special convenience of students who are about to graduate to the Class of 1901 (then Freshmen), and although the "Tech nightbirds" did not go after all to Tampico, it was a fitting proof of the classic spirit demonstrated.

- Extra editions of today's THE TECH will keep anxious Wellesley girls informed as to the opening decisions in regard to the possibility of the Cadets leaving before tomorrow evening. For the special convenience of students these editions will be on sale at Fenway Park. Returns will be given between the acts at all theatres.

dance by Gardner was an anticlimax for a college production. The number, "I Have a New Steg," is equally worthy of mention.

One asks, Why incorporate such a song as "At The Union"? It has very little, if any, connection with the plot of the Show. True, to be sure; but one must remember that the function of musical comedy has been described as a series of musical numbers connected by a loose plot; and that the most successful musical comedies are those leading in the loosest plots.

At the same time Tech Show should not be compared with a professional production but the fact remains, new, original performances are modeled after those of the professional stage. Unquestionably, both are the element of the life of the Show.

The music showed ample evidence that many popular pieces have been placed on the market this season. Perhaps the number, "Meet Me, Dear, At Hayward's" was the most tuneful melody but this is the opening chorus of Act II and "My Broadway Queen" are all on a par. Credit is due the writers of them for their efficient cooperation.

As to the book it is the best Tech Show has had but many opportunities were lost. Much cleverness might have been created out of the anachronisms and perhaps less concentration of dancing numbers at the opening of the second act might have been better, but on the whole "A Royal Johnnie" was a decided improvement on "Money In Sight." To the writer the most impressive part of the show was the bow of efficiency obtained through earnest cooperation.
