The track team deserves hearty congratulations for its fine showing against Holy Cross last Saturday. Prospects of winning the New England Intercollegiates on May twenty-third at the Stadium now appear brighter than ever.

The controversy over the recent criticism of the Institute Committee seems to be essentially one of point of view. The Committee made the selections with satisfactory results and with the best of intentions; in the way which seemed best adapted to the case. Even Jove sometimes nods; however; and the elections were carried out in a way indicating ofemail. To set dangerously restrictive precedents, not in accord with the spirit of the Undergraduate Constitution. To the members, the criticism appeared an aggregation of black-guarding accusations from an outsider who knew nothing of the matter, directed against a body which has done a great deal of good for Technology. In the grade of the action not only appeared indolent but savored of politics, and he accordingly overshoot himself somewhat in his efforts to correct abuses. Too many minutes from the Committee, while entirely correct in resisting his own exigencies, erred in descending to personal personalities and in denying his right to criticize, which he only defends in this issue.

"Doc" Cook's time in the two-mile on Saturday is the fastest recorded in any meet yet this year and places him in line as the logical winner of the quarter Saturday, but he will have a chance to reverse the decision at the New Englands.

No matter how weak Tech is in the weight events, there is at least the consolation of thinking that there is one team still weaker.

Bond of Michigan is a man to be watched in the Intercollegiates this year. Even time in the century and 21.5 for the futong is fast, and things for this early in the season.

A comparison of the times made in all the meets on Saturday shows that Tech will be a strong contender in all the running events at the New Englands with a chance of placing several men in the big Intercollegiates.

Leslie's heave of the shot on Saturday was a foot better than the mark made by Bartlett in the Brown Amateur meet.

Charlie Fox is threatening the Tech record in the broad jump at every meet. His jump of 21 feet, 8 1/2 inches on Saturday is only four inches short of the record made by G. W. Grosvenor in 1899.
