COMPANY OF COLLEGE MEN TO BE FORMED
Study Of Machine Gun To Be Taken Up With Massachusetts Infantry.

This evening at eight o'clock, the Cambridge Armoury, there will be a meeting of all Technology and Harvard undergraduates interested in joining a machine gun company to be formed in connection with the Eighth Massachusetts Infantry. The Cambridge Armoury is on Massachusetts Avenue, just beyond River Bank Court and the new Technology buildings.

This company will not be put through the ordinary drill routine, but will be given actual practice with the new Benet-Mercer rapid fire gun. Col. P. A. Graves and Captain F. J. Burnham will outline the plans for the organization and work of the company which is to consist of only college men. Capt. Burnham and Lieut. W. W. Austin of the Massachusetts State Regiment, who have been officially detailed to this company, and Lieut. William Renwich of the Harvard Law School will teach the technical operation of the weapon.

The organization has been authorized by the War Department which has decided to add one such company to every regiment of the National Guard, and if there should be a war, these companies would play an important part.
