VOLUNTEERS WANTED
FOR SOCIAL SERVICE

T. C. A. Sends Call For Student Teachers In Settlement Work.

Several of the settlement houses connected with the Technology Christian Association for volunteers in the social service work. This work does not take more than one or two evenings a week of the following time.

The House of Good Will, East Boston, a non-sectarian institution, whose work lies among Irish, Italians, Scandinavians and Jews, is in need of teachers of industrial work, vocational advisors, leaders of singing, circle and English classes.

The Ruggles Street Neighborhood House, the district of North Bay, wants men to take charge of gymnasiaum class. The North End Union, 20 Parmenter street, wants six men for boys' work.

The Home Libraries, a unique form of boys' club work, is also in need of workers, together with the Boston Children's Aid Society. Any men interested in the work, or desiring further information may call and see Mr. Cushman, the secretary of the Technology Christian Association, in his office in Engineering B.

BASKETBALL

Team Of Tech Men Defeats Y. M. C. A. Teams.

A basketball team organized by W. W. Witham, '17, has played with no little success with the Y. M. C. A. teams of Boston and Cambridge. Upset at center and Kendall playing guard have shown a very steady game. Hudson has developed a great defense and has been of great use in enabling the Howard brothers to get in some excellent passing. Rausch and Capt. Morse have been playing very fast. The result of the game with the first team was 12-13 in favor of the Techs and with the second team was 26-14. The Cambridge team also was defeated by a good score. There are more games to be played which, due to the excellent playing, are attracting a lot of deserved attention.

CHESS MATCH

Saturday evening the Technology Chess Team lost to Harvard at Cambridge by a score of 8 to 2. Tech's adversary was专or to the poor playing of some of the team and to the absence of one of its good players.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of The Tech:

On Friday evening last the Civil Engineering Society held a meeting in the Union, at which Professor John O. Sumner addressed the Architectural Society on "The Present European War." With all the talk and agitation, last year and this, about the conflict of dates, it would seem that such a conclusion need not be. Either the Societies in question are at fault in not handing in dates for meetings, or to the Calendar Committee at the Union or else the Society has not made enough effort to induce the secretaries of the Societies to be particular in handing in these announcements.

Cordially the Calendar Committee is to be retained the Committee should do something to increase its efficiency.

Yours,

UNDERGRAD.

TECH VERSUS BEVERLY

An early decision was made by Gibbons of Tech. Gibbons used a head chancery and had held to throw his man. These two bouts were the only ones in which a fall was secured.

Blodgett, who was a member of the wrestling team two years ago, managed to get a decision from Paradise of Beverly. Blodgett made use of his great strength and kept throwing his opponent to the mat.

The bout of the evening was the one in which Hoffman of Technology defeated Fielding of Beverly. Although Fielding seemed to be much stronger than Hoffman, his knowledge of the game was less and he lost a hard fought decision. In this bout Hoffman was on top of his man practically all the time.

In the next bout, Goodell of Technology lost a decision to Churchill of Beverly. The bout was very close and an extra period was necessary to decide it. The next bout was similar to the preceding. Bond, after a hard fight, finally succeeded to Rust of Beverly after they had wrestled an extra period.

In the last bout of the evening Captain Crowell won a close decision from Oud of Beverly. The third period of this bout was mostly foot work.

The bouts were of three periods, two minutes and one three-minute. If no decision was reached after the fifteen minutes, another three minutes period was required.
