CADET INSPECTION

Adjudant General Charles H. Cole Reviews Regiment.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Technology Regiment was inspected by Adjudant General Charles H. Cole of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, accompanied by the following staff: Major William J. Cawsey and Captains Charles T. Dikeelow, William B. Stearns, Frank M. Gunby, Dana T. Gallup, James D. Coady and William J. Kelville. There were a great many spectators present, the balcony and the seats along the sides of the hall being well filled. The drill went off well, the inspecting officers being especially pleased with the work the company did "Butts Manual." Major Cole said that he was very pleased with the drill. This was the first inspection by state authority.

INSTITUTE COMMITTEE

At the meeting of the Institute Committee yesterday, the point system committee reported that R. H. White and C. A. Coleman were over ten points due to their work on the Tech Show. To relieve the men it was decided that the stage manager and the director will be allowed to take part in the Show without any extra points. The informal report of the committee on "Niemand zu Haase" showed that profit even exceeded that hoped for, and will be a big help toward financing athletics.

The informal report of the committee on the "Blanket Tax" showed a favorable attitude on the part of the students. It was then moved that the chair appoint a committee to investigate and report on "Tech Night" next year. The following men were appointed: Paul Leonard, chairman, R. N. Stilmetis and L. S. Hodgeott. W. C. Wood was elected from the class of 1917 to be football manager of the class of 1919 in accordance with the uniform class constitutions.

A letter from Bursar Ford was read recommending that some such plan be adopted whereby the purchase of all sporting goods be authorized by one man. Some such plan is necessary to make sure that the credit of the class be kept. The next meeting to be on Tuesday, April 27, at 5 o'clock.
