The work of Newstetter, the Pennsylvanian pole-vaulter, marks him as a likely winner of the intercollegiate this spring. He vaulted 12 feet 10 inches in the Penn Relays, tying for first place with Foss of Cornell, and has done very consistent work all season.

Richards' record of 6 feet 5 inches in the high jump puts Cornell a sure winner in this event in all meets that are entered. O. A. Reller, however, is entered. 0. A. Reller, however, winner in this event in all meets that are entered.

In the 10-inch class, the best high jumpers in the country, in all meets, are entered. 0. A. Reller, however, winner in this event in all meets that are entered.

The Ithacan captain will be out of all trouble with Harvard in the dual meet this Saturday. Last year the Cornell's best bet in the sprints, was the Yale, Athletic Association has decided to award the varsity "Y" to men who have rowed for the same basis as oarsmen of the first boat. Men who have rowed for two years upon the second varsity will be given the coveted letter on the field each day.
