WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1915

The spirit with which the undergraduates entered into the rehearsal of Tech songs last night bodes well for the success of Tech Night. Apparently all that now remains is to make of Tech Night a permanent and respected institution. The strict compliance with the requests of the Colonial theatre. It must be remembered that the theatre was obtained only after the committee bad assured the management that there would be absolutely no confetti nor streamers thrown, and to disregard the stipulation would not only place the committee in a most uncomfortable position but it would probably mean the permanent abandonment of the present form of Tech Night.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, The Tech:
I wish to thank all the candidates who did not make the 1918 tug of war team, for their time and efforts. Their presence at practice was of the greatest value, for without them a good team could not possibly have been developed.

YALE GAME TICKETS

Applications Are Due Before Thursday Evening.

Students in courses I, II, III, VI and XI who wish to apply for tickets for the Harvard-Yale game will be admitted to applications before 2:00 o'clock Thursday evening, at the Harvard Athletic Association office in Cambridge. Students will receive from Registrar Humphreys a card certifying their course, which must be presented when the signature card is filed. After the signature card is filed the application will be received.

Not more than two tickets may be applied for, and the one seat applications receive the first attention, the seats being in the Harvard cheering section. A check or cash, $2 for each seat, must be enclosed in the application.

Every student receiving a ticket is held personally liable for the seat, and must promise to occupy one of them himself. Any man whose ticket is found in the hands of a spectator will be "black listed" and will be excluded from the rights of applying for seats again. Yale graduates in the Institute should apply for seats through their own management.

I, fev'ry man's name described him as well as VELVET'S.
