THE SENIOR DINNER.

Of the dinners held by each class which goes through Technology, there are two which stand out above the rest, for much the same reason. There is the freshman dinner, held at the beginning of the year, when the new men meet their classmates for the first time and learn something of what the Institute expects of them while they are students here. Then there is the Senior Dinner, at which classmates, many of whom are now calling each other by first names, meet for the last time at one of these splendid occasions where students and faculty come together on common ground. This time, however, the spirit of fellowship is more prevalent than ever before. Here, also, the student learns something of what the Institute expects from them as men. The Senior Dinner stands out as one of the events in the life of a Technology man in which it is a privilege to participate and from which he will derive a great deal of benefit and satisfaction.

BLINDFOLD CHESS

Saturday, December 1, A. H. Koenigsberg of the Technology chess team will give an exhibition of blindfold chess. He will play match games with four members of the team simultaneously without sight of any of the boards.

Next Friday evening, the Tufts chess team is to be at the Union for a Metropolitan League match. All interested in these events are invited to be present.

CORRECTION

In last Monday's Tech, under the list of Junior Prom nominations, the name of P. F. Hill, '17, was misspelled.

TECH LABORATORIES AT STATE SERVICE

Samples Of Material For New Dry Dock In Boston Harbor To Be Tested.

An agreement has recently been made between President MacArthur and Mr. Edward F. McSweeney, the Chairman of the Board of Port Directors, whereby Technology will test samples of the materials to be used in the construction of the new dry dock in its laboratories. Such a task will require the examination of about thirty thousand individual specimens, but only a slight increase in apparatus will enable the Institute to cope with the situation readily. In his correspondence with Mr. McSweeney, President MacArthur explained the policy of the Institute when he wrote, in speaking of the tests to be made, "We undertake this without any offer of commercial profit, charging for the use of our equipment merely enough to cover the actual cost of operation."
