DOCTOR GILL FINDS ROMANCE STILL ALIVE

Technology Professor Manages To Block Theft Of Estate In Law Suit

Dr. Gill had an interesting experience the past vacation when he was called to Boulder, Colorado, to examine a deceased man whose gen-ernessness there was a difference of opinion between two handwriting experts. By his knowledge of paper and ink which subject he has studied for many years, and by the use of the microscope, he was able to pronounce it genuine.

The case reads like a romance. The document in question was a contract written by a father in Leadville in 1880 delivering his only daughter to the care and custody of a well-to-do man and his wife of Boulder, on condition that he care for the child as his own, and keep a will on hand, in which he gives her a third of his estate. Her mother was long since dead. On the death of her foster father's copy of the contract was bought and he obtained a settlement for all claims against him for the sum of $500. On the death of her foster father suit was begun for her share of the estate, and strangely enough the father's copy of the contract was found to them. A visit there resulted upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought written. Her lawyers had the document studied for many years, and by the use of the microscope, he was able to pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man unknown to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.

The document was photographed in March, 1910, bought
written. Her lawyers had the document
studied for many years, and by the
use of the microscope, he was able to
pronounce it genuine. The letter from a man un-
known to them. A visit there resulted
ed upon as being very significant.