THE LOUNGER

avuncular fame. Only when his sacred right to sleep in shoes is attacked, does the wrinkle of wrath break his unruffled calm; but then let the offender tremble. Without an instant's delay he is called to a duel and spitted before his very door. The Lounger himself has seen the wall, notched with the score of our hero's toll of lives, and the blood-stained (or coffee-grounded) cloths marking the graves of many and predicting the funeral of more.

But The Lounger has said enough. Inevitably, when he sees a case of unappreciated and unrewarded genius or devotion to some great cause, a feeling of regret creeps over him at the waste of perfectly good virtue and determination. In this instance he thinks the apparition of his dreams was a reminder of his duty to alleviate the sufferings described, if only to call them to the attention of the T. C. A.

WAYS AND MEANS REPORT

1. For the payment of a small sum, every student is assured free medical consultation and advice whenever he desires it. This will tend to cause men to consult the physician on slight provocation, thus greatly minimizing the danger of serious illness or epidemics.
2. Cases like the Field Day accidents will be treated free of charge to the individual.
3. Home treatment can be secured at rates much lower than the student could get independently.
4. The increasing number of cases of illness and accident, and the concentration of students in the dormitories, makes more adequate supervision of the health of the student more desirable.

The cost of maintaining such Health Insurance, exclusive of First Aid facilities, which we believe should be furnished by the Institute would be one thousand dollars a year.

The summarized expenses are:

Institute Committee	$300
Classes	1400
Athletics	4500
Walker Memorial	4000
Health Insurance	1000
Total	$11,200

With regard to the raising of this sum, two questions present themselves:

1. How should the money be raised? And, since it must almost certainly come from the student body.
2. How shall it be collected?

Your committee feels that the only equitable of meeting the expense is to have it equally borne by all members of the Undergraduate Association; and it consequently recommends that annual dues of $6.25 be paid by each member of the Association. It further recommends that the Institute Committee petition the Corporation to collect the dues, as a part of the regular Institute expense, with tuition, dividing the sum between the first and second terms as may be found advisable. With regard to First Aid provisions, the Committee recommends that the Corporation be further petitioned to provide and equip a first aid room. This could be done for about two hundred dollars.

In case the Institute Committee cares to consider the plan of this committee, it is felt that several pertinent facts should be pointed out, notably the advantages of the dues system to the Undergraduate Association, and its flexibility to meet the demands of increased membership.

The advantages to the Undergraduate Association are:

1. The system provides an equitable sharing of financial burdens, at a minimum cost to the individual.
2. It provides a convenient and efficient means of payment.
3. It eliminates possible control of any all-Technology function or activity by a private organization.
4. It increases the interest in undergraduate affairs of those students who are at present non-participating.
5. It provides for payment by the Association of expenses which are justly its own.
6. It furnishes to each member of the Association these specific privileges:
 - a. Membership in the Association, with the right to hold office in the Institute Committee or the activities which compose it; and he right to be heard in the Institute Committee.
 - b. Suffrage rights in the classes.
 - c. Free admission to Field Day and all athletic events held on Technology grounds.
 - d. The right to use any of the athletic facilities supplied by the Association.
 - e. All privileges of the Walker Memorial.
 - f. Free consultation with a physician, free treatment for accident or illness incurred in service for the Undergraduate Association, and other treatment at reduced rate.

BANKING AND SAFE DEPOSIT

The nearest Cambridge bank to the Institute is the Central Trust Company. Its main office is at No. 599 Massachusetts Avenue, exactly at the easterly entrances and exits of the Central Square Station of the Cambridge subway.

The Central Trust Company is not only the oldest bank in Cambridge—the business having been established in 1826—but it also is the largest suburban trust company in Massachusetts. This institution has built up its business and increased its clientele by the high character of the service it renders to the public.

On checking accounts two per cent. interest is allowed. This bank has always paid four per cent. on savings accounts and interest begins on the first day of each month. There is no limit to the amount which may be deposited in the savings department. The safe deposit vault is on the ground floor and the rates are one-half the Boston rentals. This company also has a large foreign exchange business. The members of the Technology faculty who are storing valuable books and manuscripts can have their books and papers much more accessible by having them in the Central Trust Company vaults. The company calls for and delivers storage without charge.

The business hours of the Central Trust Company are very convenient and will meet the requirements of both the members of the faculty and the students of the Institute. The bank's doors are open every day, except Saturday, from eight A. M. to four P. M., and on Saturdays the hours are from eight A. M. to one P. M. and from six to eight in the evening. Saturday evening all departments are open and all lines of the company's business are transacted.

Banking business may be transacted by mail, as this company has facilities for expediting and safe-guarding any business transacted through the mails. Deposits in the Central Trust Company may be made at any United States mail box.

The professors and students of the Institute will find that the Central Trust Company is mindful of their special needs and that it offers them a banking service that is not only highly efficient, but that is also cordial and neighborly.—Adv.
