Interest Among Upperclassmen Grows

Researchers in the business department at Yale have reported that interest in the freshman crew is growing, especially among the upperclassmen. In particular, they have noted an increase in the number of students attending practices at the Boat House Satuday.

This is a significant change over the past few years, when upperclassmen had been generally less interested in the crew. Researchers attributed this increase to a number of factors, including the success of the freshman crew in recent years and the growing popularity of rowing as a sport.
