BE CAREFUL

It is very easy for a few thoughtless students to discard the student body as a whole. We can remember how great a source of discomfort and inconvenience the numerous holes and cuts in the walls and doors used to be at the old Institute. With our establishment repositioned on the present site, it becomes the duty of every thoughtful student to exercise due care in occupying these new buildings. It is disgusting to see the dirty and scratched condition of the columns around the 1029—due in all cases to the actions of an unrepresentative minority whose barbarous instincts seemingly are in the ascendancy. It is unfortunate that students showing visions through our palatial home should be humiliated by the depredations of a few of their fellow mortals. Let every one of us not only exercise due care and thought, but also apply personal prevention to the destruction caused by thoughtless and careless actions on the part of others.
