The Walker Memorial, Technology's student social center, opened Tuesday morning, as a headquarters for two hundred and fifty aviation and a hundred and twenty-five officers of the Aeronautical School as the institute. The new building is named in memory of Frank Amasa Walker, second president of the Institute, who, at the age of twenty-five, was a general in the United States Army during the Civil War. That the structure which bears his name should be used for so useful a war service is a singular tribute to this military graduate of the Institute.

Train Flyers at Fort Worth

Transplant Royal Flying Corps Until They Fight Canada

Godfrey L. Cabot '81, a successful manufacturer of Boston, president of the American Aeronautical Corporation and a vice-president of the Aeroplane Club of America, has just opened the doors of the new plant at Fort Worth, Texas. In an interview with the Signal Corps on Monday, November 12, Mr. Cabot said that he expected to be able to produce a plane similar to the Admiral's search for such accommodation. The first American plane was developed and produced, and the present plane will be transferred to the Fort Worth school, a plant which has not yet been set up. It is expected that by that date a sufficient number of technicians and mechanics, trained in America, will be available to provide for the opening of the school.

Four Squadrons Training

Four squadrons—400 men—will probably be under way when the school opens. The training of these men will be a most difficult task, as there are many factors that must be considered in their instruction. A large number of men are required to work in the factory, and the American and English instructors are required to work in concert and in perfect harmony. In teaching students to fly, the country is acknowledged to be one of the first in the world, and the training of these men will be a delicate task, requiring patience and attention to detail. The American and English instructors are asked to consult with the Chief of Engineers, War Department.

PICNIC IN WASHINGTON

Capital Alumni Club Have Outdoors Despite Weather

In celebration of Harvard reunion events, the Washington Alumni held its annual picnic, with Thursday, August 19, as the opening and Tuesday, August 25, of the same week, in Pierce's Mill, Rock Creek Park. The number attending was somewhat smaller than had been anticipated, but the party made up in exclusions what it lacked in numbers. Proceeding from a bad situation, the group assembled near the Capitol, then proceeded to the Washington Monument, where the group was expected to be assembled.

Admiral Fiske's device, which is patented, was one of the most successful experiments to date. The plane was to be used for such purposes as destroying the German fleet, as it is known that a naval lieutenant has been experimented on in this manner.

The committee on public instructions in the United States has recommended the most necessary subjects for study for the advancement of the German nation and for the encouragement of the German spirit. In contrast to this, the United States has been experimenting with the torpedo-plane, and it is known that a naval lieutenant has been experimented on in this manner.

The German government has been experimenting with the torpedo-plane, and it is known that a naval lieutenant has been experimented on in this manner.
