A WORD TO THE WISE.

The traditional failure of Sophomore classes to begin their preparation for Field Day as promptly as the freshmen is almost a law in Institute history, and the Class of '19 is showing no disposition to violate this tradition. It may be that they are satisfied with having won one Field Day and are regarding the others as mere formality. As more or less apathetic eye, counting on their superior age, experience, and wisdom to carry the ball, they will find themselves newcomers and sent their men out for the tennis full of fight and confidence.

The fact that they got the jump on their heavier rivals in the matter of practice had much to do with their ultimate success. No class can win its second Field Day by hoping to overtake the younger men with stories of its past prowess. It takes hard and patient work, and it behoves the Sophomores to begin now if they intend to furnish the rest of the Institute with a contest which will be worth watching. The freshmen possess the advantage of having a much larger number to pick from, and, judging from their anxious last Saturday, are not overburdened with respectful timidity. Turn out, Sophomores, and show the staff of which you are made!

A SACRED DUTY.

By Max Seltzer '18

The numerous peace posters and suggestions which have been recently emanating from Germany should not be cause for decrease in vigor of preparation for a long war. There is no doubt that Germany wants peace—a German peace. The good way to obtain a lasting peace, however, is to continue the war until the Central powers are freed from the yoke of autocracy—and any inghty on the part of the Allies induced by the vision of an early civilization is bound to prove abortive, as the experience of the recent war has come out for emphasis. That position is still realizable and there is a good chance for a further effort. The 1916 Plan of the Council of the College Farm Society, at its 24th annual meeting, was adopted by the by-laws.

Third Series of Officers' Training Camps to Open

Students From 65 Specialized Colleges Invited to Participate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—A third series of officers' training camps, to genral rooms on the 3rd floor, will be

In addition, however, 2,000 graduate

Srex columns.

Roton W. Meader

PV. Raymond McKenney '19.

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the

af the