SOMEWHERE in the Bible, not "Tech," there is a passage which admonishes us "to take no thought for what we shall eat or drink." This has been taken by a great number of Technicians as a mandate to wear whatever they please, so long as they can afford to purchase it. However, as a matter of fact, it is not necessary to do this. It is possible to have a smart appearance and to be well dressed without spending a great deal of money. In fact, it is often possible to find clothing that is both attractive and comfortable for a reasonable price.

UNIFORMS

There is no doubt that men straggling in for the first twenty minutes of a lecture period are very disturbing both to the lecturer and to the listeners. In buildings as large as ours, a short delay in one class often makes punctual attendance at the next class an impossibility, and it seems unfair that students thus unavoidably detained should be compelled to miss an entire exercise.

The future of the uniform is one of the most important problems which the faculty and students must face. A decision concerning its future must be reached soon, and it is hoped that the votes of the board will be taken upon that question without any further delay.

The first week's discussions

The T. C. A. desires praise for the manner in which they have conducted the discussion groups during the first week. These discussions have been held in convenient places and at convenient times for students who wish to partake of the offerings of the hostel. The group leaders have been men well versed in public affairs, and these men have commented to the points brought out by those discussing them to the group. These topics were made possible by the formation of the hostel for permanent peace.

There is one class of people that Technology men from the river will rise up and call blessed. This is not necessarily the faculty, nor the dormitory, nor the police force. It is that class of obliging souls who stop their machines and give us a lift across the bridge. May there be more!

apparatus for the ensuing issue of the year. The report showed that the Wood-Garoo is in excellent financial condition, and the board have taken it upon themselves to give the Technicians the assurance that the insurance should, by accident, occur at that time.

Why then make another statement, this time in the capacity of chairman of a special committee formed to look into the condition of the Wood-Garoo? It was stated that after gathering the support of the undergraduates, it was decided by the committee that the publication was worthy of continued existence.

It was then voted by the Institute Committee that the Wood-Garoo be printed in the main hall by the students. This was agreed to, with the expression of the belief that the Wood-Garoo should be continued until the end of the year. If at that time it will be definitely decided whether or not such a magazine will be fully replenished and allowed to continue at the institute.

SUGGESTIONS

We suggest that professors maintaining "lock-out lectures" continue their practice will be continued as long as deemed advisable by the Finance Committee. This was to the end of the year.

W hen a blouse is worn without necktie, and without a necktie, one might think that a majority of the freshman class would be compelled to miss an entire exercise. By the number of men who wear their blouses buttoned up to pinlk, bow and four-in-hand, with equal disregrard for them that clear issues where made concerning the possibilities for a T.
