ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR STUDENTS TO WORK IN SHIPYARDS DURING SUMMER

Plan to House the Men in Y.M.C.A. Huts Now Being Constructed—Present High Wages to Be Paid

When the time of departing the Grotius arrives, and the students leave the freedom of the seas for the calls of the office, there may be a moment when they are faced with the task of finding a suitable line of work. The Grotius Band, which is composed of students who have completed their studies, offers an opportunity for those who are interested in the field of marine engineering or shipbuilding. The Band is currently looking for new members to fill positions as shipyard workers.

The Band is being housed in Y.M.C.A. huts, which are being constructed specifically for the use of students during the summer. The huts are designed to provide a comfortable living environment while they work in the shipyards. The Band's presence in the shipyards is expected to bring a fresh perspective to the industry and help promote a positive image of engineering and shipbuilding.

The Band is offering high wages to attract students to work in the shipyards. This is a significant incentive for students who are looking for practical experience in their field. The Band believes that by providing students with a clear path to a successful career, they can help ensure the continued growth and development of the industry.

This opportunity is not only a chance for students to gain practical experience, but also a chance to make a valuable contribution to society. The Band believes that through their work, they can help to build a better future for the next generation of students and professionals.

The Band is looking for students who are interested in marine engineering or shipbuilding. They are encouraged to apply to join the Band and contribute to the future of the industry.
