
The condition at Central Square and at Massachusetts Station in the morning is often so bad that it is well to get there a minute early. Two cars on the Massachusetts Avenue line are always running late owing to the bad weather conditions and the paucity of brakemen during the early part of February. The mixture of the cars is usually quite bad and the line, but also those that were in service were hardly ever on time and the line, which reached a climax in their uncleanliness and unattractiveness during the early part of February, was still running to the track of a number of service cars in the Elevated Company a month ago. The plan as outlined in the editorial would help the crowd and the Saturday rush. The officials of the company have suggested that the people have a little patience, and wait for the cars in the evening shuttle cars are run every 9.00 in the morning and 4.45 and 5.30 a car every
