THE TECH
Wednesday, July 3, 1918

COMUNICATION

In a recent issue of THE TECH the following letter was published, but at the time the details were lacking. The following letter, which Nathan's death has just been received by the editor.

Tunbridge, Aug. 31.

[The Editor of the TECH]

The March death issue of THE TECH has been the subject of much discussion. The issue has been received with very little comment, but the fact that the death of "O\

I Nathan's death is lacking. Some have chosen to be silent, and some have chosen to comment. It is surprising to see the amount of silence in relation to the event. The editor does not wish to comment on the issue, but he does wish to acknowledge the silence and the lack of comment.

The Tech, the official Tech magazine, has reported at Commonwealth Pier. The Tech is the official magazine of the Technological University of New England.

John W. Keating '20 of New York has just registered his subscription at the office. He was one of the first dozen dinners at the New England college.

Tech Students

CAN BE CLOTHED
TO THEIR COMPLETE SATISFACTION

BY

MACULAR PARKER COMPANY

Manufacturers and Retailers

Dependable Fabrics, Worsted and Styles

Garments Ready to Wear and to Measure

FINE FURNISHINGS

STETSON HATS

Officers Uniforms and Army Made to Measure

MACULAR PARKER COMPANY

400 WASHINGTON STREET

BOSTON BRANCH AT AYER

Riverbank Court Hotel

Scanned from a PDF

Spanish Students

are strangers, any news of troops and transport movements, of latest reports to members and students. It is clear that this is a very important issue. The editor is very pleased to see such interest in the subject.

Henry L. B. Parker '18

Our "ROTten" DORMITIES.

A short time ago a young Westerner took it upon himself to write about the dormitories, and the subject of conversation was the dormitories. It seems that he had just completed a tour of inspection, and his remarks were about the dormitories. He said that he had not been impressed by the dormitories, but that they were not bad. He said that the dormitories were not very good, but that they were not bad.

There is a great need for recognition of the dormitories. In the past, there has been little or no recognition of the dormitories. The dormitories have been taken for granted, and the need for recognition has been ignored.

IF THE DRAFT AGE GOES DOWN TO EIGHTEEN.

Have you stopped to think what will happen if the draft age is lowered to eighteen? If this happens, the number of freshmen who are eligible to be drafted will increase significantly. This will place a great strain on the dormitories, and the need for recognition will become even more pressing.

Students are encouraged to support the dormitories and to speak out in favor of recognition. The dormitories are a vital part of the college experience, and they need to be recognized for the important role they play in the lives of students.