Institutes Men Win Fourth Contest by Virtue of Excellent Preparation Given Them by Intensive Military Training

B. J. Griffth Takes Individual Honors

The Technology Naval Aviation School lived up to all expectations in the track meet held on Boston Common July 4th, by carrying off the coveted cup in connection with the third annual track meet sponsored by the toastmaster of the foreign exchange. The Technology men made an impression to the fine condition that the men were in and to their training here, and the sum total of importance of their well-coached team, under the command of coach, Mike Devanney, the former Mlelrose champion runner. The Technology men captured the majority of the prizes, winning the distance grades that year and many others. The big track, the tug of war from the Harvard Radio School and the final contest - the Boston University team, the team which Technology has undertaken at the inauguration of the Government.

NINETY-FOUR WOMEN STUDENTS IN ELEVENTH GRADE SCHOOLS AT THE INSTITUTE

Ninety-four women students attended the institutes last Sunday, July 7th to take special summer courses which would pay them for Army work, especially in the Medical Corps. This move is another step in the Government's program to train women for many of the positions in the Armed Forces. The number of women students who have applied for training has increased significantly since the Institute's program was first started. The Institute's goal is to train as many women as possible in order to free men for service on the front lines. The Institute's program is designed to provide women with the necessary skills and knowledge to contribute to the war effort in a variety of ways. The Institute is committed to providing women with equal opportunities for education and training, and to preparing them for leadership roles in the Armed Forces. The Institute's program is aimed at empowering women to take on new responsibilities and to make a significant impact on the war effort. The Institute's program is designed to be flexible and responsive to the needs of women, and to provide them with the resources and support they need to succeed. The Institute's program is designed to be inclusive and to accommodate the diverse needs of women, and to provide them with the resources and support they need to succeed.
