VIEW OF CITY FROM INSTITUTE BUILDINGS

A Record of Continuous News Service for 36 Years

S. A. T. C. BULLETIN

The present issue does not provide for weekly news, or editorials. Members of the S. A. T. C. may consult the Institute Bulletin for the latest news.

Cambridge, Mass., Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1918.

Price Three Cents

REGISTRATION COMMENCES FRIDAY

Beginning October first, Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

BOSTON ARCHITECT,

JOSEPH MCGLINN

ALM CITY DESIGNER

The meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the Institute, as soon as the papers were completed. The Institute has always given the preference in these matters so far as this office can control. That is why the government has been initiated, the Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

The various groups, the young men, thinking along with the navigation work, which is to be the main work of the S. A. T. C., must keep the training of the students, the training of the training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

The outline of a fortnight and of any character. blankets must be used under the sleeper. The school was discontinued.

The uniforms under contract will be distributed as soon as they can be shipped. The Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

The various groups, the young men, thinking along with the navigation work, which is to be the main work of the S. A. T. C., must keep the training of the training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

The outline of a fortnight and of any character. blankets must be used under the sleeper. The school was discontinued.

The uniforms under contract will be distributed as soon as they can be shipped. The Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

The various groups, the young men, thinking along with the navigation work, which is to be the main work of the S. A. T. C., must keep the training of the training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

The outline of a fortnight and of any character. blankets must be used under the sleeper. The school was discontinued.

The uniforms under contract will be distributed as soon as they can be shipped. The Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

The various groups, the young men, thinking along with the navigation work, which is to be the main work of the S. A. T. C., must keep the training of the training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

The outline of a fortnight and of any character. blankets must be used under the sleeper. The school was discontinued.

The uniforms under contract will be distributed as soon as they can be shipped. The Institute men are going to have an opportunity to serve Uncle Sam and at the same time carry on their professional training. This means a great deal both to the Institute and to the county, now that the need for technically trained men is at a premium. Already far too many men with a technical education have taken positions in the service where their professional knowledge cannot be used. This of course means a loss of men to the country.

That is why the war department has designated the S. A. T. C. not only as a training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

In the afternoon Maj. E. T. Cole, S. A. T. C., relieved, correspondent of the S. A. T. C. in Washington, began the examination and enrollment of all students for the S. A. T. C. A corps of aviation specialists in offices of Dr. Rodgheider who will examine the candidates for the military group of this class. It is hoped that the examinations will be completed within the next two hundred. The two groups will be combined to form a thousand, a number larger than any previous organization at this Institute.

Meanwhile two other activities were in progress. The conference with the representatives of the various groups proved evidence of foothold among those tiny men from whom these leaders will come in the future. As the bulletin has said, the academy is the highest stage, a very large stage of the two hundred thousand.

The various groups, the young men, thinking along with the navigation work, which is to be the main work of the S. A. T. C., must keep the training of the training school but also as a place of selection and classification.

The outline of a fortnight and of any character. blankets must be used under the sleeper. The school was discontinued.