Our Daily Bread

When do you follow campus news?

Presumably you have seen the dorm lounge line-ups. You may have noted the "Over at Wadsworth, at 3:00," or "Sweney's Bookstore at 2:30," headline on the campus TV, or you may have heard someone say, "I need to go to the dorm lounge because there is some professor there who is making an announcement or holding a meeting." These are the "campus events," and they are usually scheduled and announced by the dorms, the dining halls, or the student affairs office.

But what about the "daily bread" that is not always scheduled or announced in advance? What about the daily activities that take place without notice or without being advertised in the student publications? Well, let's take a look at some of these activities.
