SEATS for Tech Night, to be held at "Sinbad," at the Boston Opera House, on the night of Field Day, Fridays, May 19 and 26, will be on sale Monday, April 21st, in the Main Lobby.

The tickets for the entire house for that evening are in the hands of the Tech Special Committee, and will be sold at the box office or elsewhere, but must be obtained from the committee before the end of next week. Seats held for the Main lobby from 1:00 to 2:00 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. This sale, excerpts will be issued for the price of the tickets, and the tickets themselves will be given out later upon presentation of the receipt.

Not only have special prices on seats been obtained from the management of the theater, but the war tax is also included in the sale of the seats quoted below. This price includes a fifteen cent contribution to the final which will be used for decoring the theater, and for entertainment during the intermission. In a letter to the Tech, with technological conditions, the freshmen will sit opposite, the seats in the orchestra being reserved for faculty, alumni, seniors, jalous and sophomores. The seats in each class will be sold in order of registration, and the first comers may expect to get more seats than those applying later. Satisfactory seats cannot be guaranteed to men who fail to apply promptly, and it is essential that everyone who wants to have a good view not only of the show itself, but of the three activities both in proscenium and orchestra, which form a distinctive part of the play. Tickets will remain on sale at this price until 1:00 on Saturday, April 21st, and will be sold at the box office from 1:00 to 2:00 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. This sale, excerpts will be issued for the price of the tickets, and the tickets themselves will be given out later upon presentation of the receipt.

Why is Tech Night?

Followed The Case Rush In The Old Days—Before 1901 Only Victors Attended

There have been many articles written as to how Tech Day took the place of the Annual Case Sydney between the Freshmen and the Sophomores. The occasion was to have much knowledge concerning the use of laws when "good men come together." For many years after the Case Rush ended the faculty still celebrate their victory. Gradually the spirit of the original Case Sydney served as the basis of the entire Rush and it became a fine affair in which both classes participated. The right to choose the theater fell to the Sophomores, and the cost of the whole affair in the first Field Day was held, because the biggest thing that both classes should go to the theater after the strength. This has been done as long as Field Day has been held usually the sixth, seventh, and eighteenth of June. At this meeting the faculty and students have been served for the Sophomore teams and the faculty served a meal of the fare of the freshman teams; the rest of the faculty was known as the faculty. It is customary for the theater to be decorated with the appropriate colors and the students are the audience for the performance. Since that time there have been no disturbances of any kind, but from 1894 to 1896 a field day was held before Tech Night in the Union and a new policy of organized seating and seating for Tech night was adopted, which has been properly adhered to.
