ALL OUT FOR THE TECH NEWS!

Starting this week, new competitions for positions in the News Department of THE TECH have been inaugurated, and selections and eliminations will be held at least once a month. The competitions are consistent with the effort of THE TECH staff to maintain a standard of excellence in all its departments.

The news this week comes from the Engineering Department, where new students are being recruited for the academic year. The Engineering Department is preparing for a busy fall semester, with new classes, projects, and competitions.

The seating of the Sophomore crews has been announced as a part of the 1922 combinations, with races later on in the season. The crew consists of Robert W. Coit, H. D. Elinsbee, and E. McFadden; stroke, C. W. Bryden; Cox, W. H. Goodall.

The exciting race of the day was the two-mile run, which has been arranged by Professor Goodall. According to the reports of participants, the event was held on the Tech track Wednesday, with the report that "The race was a good one, with the men working hard until the end."

The annual Institute spring interclass meet was held Saturday morning at the Technology Oval. The meet will be held on the Oval again next year. The event was a great success, with the Technicians making a good showing.

ELECTRICAL SOCIETY VISITS WALKER MEMORIAL

Members See Construction of Building

According to the reports of participants in the last Friday's trip, the Electrical Society was a decided success. At that time forty members of the undergraduate Society visited the building in its present state of construction. The men were shown the various departments, where an outside speaker gave a short talk on the operation and functioning of the plant.

The members were also given a demonstration of the testing equipment, and were shown the various types of motors and transformers which were in use. The men were impressed with the efficiency of the plant, and were enthusiastic about the future of the Electrical Society at Tufts.

PROFESSORS DINE AWAY FROM HOME

Sides of Teleoscope Shown

As a special privilege, some of the professors were invited to see the objects that they had been working on in the laboratory. The students were able to show the professors the various objects that they had been working on, and were given a chance to explain the procedures that they had been using.

When the hour of departure arrived, the professors were given a special thanks for their hard work and dedication. They were given a gift of the instruments that they had been using.

SMOKEHOUSE CLASS LAGGING

Name of Speaker and Sponsor - smoking

According to the Tech Night committee, all of the seats for "Sinbad" are still available. At the last minute, the committee has decided to leave at least two seats open for sale in order to encourage more students to attend the performance.

The success of the show has been greater than anticipated, with many students expressing interest in attending the performance on the second night. However, due to the large number of students attending, the committee has decided to leave the seats open for sale in order to accommodate more students.
