WIRELESS SOCIETY TO HOLD IMPORTANT BUSINESS MEETING

An important meeting of the Wireless society is to be held at 7.30 to-night in North Dining Hall, Walker Memorial. It is expected that two important matters of business will be considered: first, final action in regard to the wireless station which the society is erecting beside the Power House; and second, the question of holding a banquet to mark the close of the scholastic year.

Work on the installation of the station has been temporarily stopped. The room loaned to the society by the Institute is ready for occupancy and with the aerial already in place it should take but a few hours to connect the instruments.

Because of bad operating conditions during the summer and also because of naval regulations the present installation is to be of a temporary nature. The construction of a permanent station will probably not be undertaken until September, but the station will be completed in time to take advantage of the good static conditions during the winter months.

WIND TUNNEL VISITED

its operation will appear in next Saturday's issue.

The officers of the society are enthusiastic over the results of last week's membership campaign, during which time over forty men paid their dues. Efforts are now being made to push the number of active members to one hundred or more. It is expected that this number will be attained in short order due to the fact that the dues are quite low, only fifty cents for the rest of the year, and also because of the attractive program which the management has worked out. According to the secretary's report several unusual treats are to be announced after the wind tunnel has been visited. These will be chiefly along the line of smokers with noted aeronautical engineers as the speakers.

The management is expecting to reserve a third table for the use of the society in the Walker Memorial dining hall. The two tables now in daily use are already being overworked. The main topic of discussion at present at these daily dinner meetings is the question of the impending trans-Atlantic fight. New light is thrown on this subject each day as the men gather, small bits of information coming from all quarters, so that those who are present come away well posted.

A poster has been placed on the main bulletin board in the Lobby which from day to day will contain the latest developments on the attempt of the United States Navy to make the air voyage across the Atlantic. Students who are interested in this subject of international importance will find up-to-date information on it at this place.
