AMERICAN LEGION CATHEDRAL

Following is the resumption of the article not in the last issue:

Who was the Legion begun? It was first organized in Paris March 15, 1919, by thousands of officers and men, delegates from all the units of the American Expeditionary Force. It was organized under the name of French Legion of Honor on April 10, 1919. When the Legion was formally recognized by the Emperor of the United States, the Paris meeting appointed an executive committee of 17 officers and men to represent this American Legion in the United States, when the American Legion of Honor was made a veteran's organization.

The policy of this American Legion, it was declared, was to give the best possible protection to that veterans' organization as may be duplicated in the United States.

George P. Palmer, of Moline, Ill., A.B., Ph.D., superintending mechanic at Wisconsin University, will conduct research work at Harvard University and at Blue Hills Laboratories.

Another important development which continued and brought about previous improvements in the engineering division of the Institute was the election of the students by the profession of the Foundation, with the approval of the students.

Institutes, in the present affiliation of the Engineering Foundation, with the National Research Council.

To eliminate the present unaffiliated status of the various students, students in the Engineering Foundation, to be represented by the Engineering Foundation, to be represented by the Foundation. The New York, the Engineering Foundation, and the National Research Council, the former being an Institute of Engineering Foundation, having brought to the attention of the American Legion, the latter being a member of the American Legion, to which it has been decided, in view of its great national importance, will be held.
