WASHINGTON "ZOO" AND OTHERS

"A PRIZE FIGHT"

By Robert E. Howard

"The champion of the world in his prime, the best fighter that ever lived, on the floor" is the way the reporter describes the great boxer. The title fight, which takes place on November 15, is highly anticipated. The boxer is known for his aggressive style and unrelenting pressure on the canvas. With a record of 60-3-1, he is considered invincible. The challenger, a rising star with a promising future, will attempt to upset the odds and secure the title. This fight is sure to be a blockbuster, with fans from around the world tuning in to watch the epic clash of titans.

WILL RUN HARVARD

Relay Team Will Meet Cremins at B. A. A. Games

It has been definitely decided that the Harvard-A. A. Games will be held on February 1. After that date, the teams will be split into two sections: the eastern and the western. The eastern section will consist of the teams of Yale, Princeton, and Cornell, while the western section will include the teams of Harvard, Dartmouth, and Brown. The teams will be separated into three categories: the top, the middle, and the bottom. The top category will consist of the teams with the highest rankings, while the bottom category will include the teams with the lowest rankings. The middle category will include the teams that are in between. Each team in the top category will play against each other, while the teams in the bottom category will play against each other. The teams in the middle category will play against the teams in the top category and the bottom category. The winners of the top category will advance to the semi-finals, while the winners of the middle category will advance to the quarter-finals. The winners of the quarter-finals will advance to the semi-finals, while the winners of the semi-finals will advance to the finals. The finals will be played on the same day as the semi-finals. The winners of the finals will be crowned as the champions of the A. A. Games.
