LAST WORDS OF PRESIDENT GIVEN ALUMNI AT DINNER

December 24, 1920

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24

COLD WHICH HE CONTRACTED IN NEW YORK WHILE MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR THIS JUBILEE BANQUET LED TO TRAGIC END

PROFESSOR SEDGWICK READ ADDRESS

The last official statement of Dr. Richard C. Maclaurin was issued on the occasion of the jubilee banquet, the climax to the successful campaign to raise four million dollars and the foremost event of the year. The full text of the speech follows:

Advised of President Maclaurin’s illness, the Committee on General Affairs arranged for the great banquet in the new hall of Tech during the course of the next week, and the leaders of Tech were indiscriminate in their admiration. The campaign for the object has been incomparable in efficiency, and the final sum reached has not been the result of any effort on the part of Mr. Maclaurin himself, the coveted goal was attained, and an impressive banquet arranged for the purpose. The climax, an evening banquet, January 10. A record attendance had been promised, and the result justified the prophecy. But of many things, largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclaurin was confined to bed with an illness that was not then supposed to be serious, and his address was read by Professor Sedgwick. The text of the speech follows:

Mr. Smith had largely by his individual efforts, guided and directed the campaign, was unable to be present at the banquet and its attending glory of his career. Mr. Maclauri...