

ADVISORY COUNCIL AWARDS INSIGNIA

At Wednesday's meeting the advisory council also decided that hereafter the award of the trophy to the winner of the intramural tennis tournament will be discretionary instead of automatic, as has been the case up to the present time. This action was taken on the recommendation of Joseph Greenblatt, manager of the varsity team.

LACK OF QUORUM CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF MEETING

Due to the large membership in the Aero Society, the number of men attending the elections on last Friday did not constitute the required quorum which is specified in the constitution of the Society and the election was postponed. A new scheme has been adopted, which the present officers hope will produce better results. Ballots will be mailed to all the members and instructions enclosed for their return, a method far more reaching than the one previously employed. Several important changes in the constitution will also be voted on the same ballot.

NEW ENGLAND LIBRARIANS HOLD SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

The college librarians of Wellesley, Wheaton, Tufts, Harvard, the Naval War College of Newport, Dartmouth, Amherst, and the University of Maine were the guests of Dr. Bigelow, the Institute librarian at a dinner in the Faculty room Friday evening. The meeting was one of the semi-annual gatherings of the New England librarians. There were about 50 members of the association present. The dinner was followed by a discussion on subjects pertaining to the betterment of technical library efficiency and economy.

The regular meeting of the librarians was held Saturday morning. Professor D. C. Jackson of the Electrical Engineering department gave an address on "The College Library from the Standpoint of the Engineer." The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock, after which Dr. Bigelow showed his guests through the Institute libraries.

GOVERNMENT ASKS STUDENTS TO FARM DURING SUMMER

Serious Shortage of Food Unless Men Respond

A letter, received by Dean Burton from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. urges Institute men to spend their summer vacations helping on the farms of the country, since the country faces a possible curtailment of food supplies, due to a serious shortage of farm labor.

Reports gathered by the department show that the present supply of hired farm labor is 15 per cent. less than last year and approximately 72 per cent. of the normal supply, which was almost exactly the condition in 1918.

The department requests students to write to the director of agricultural extension at their State agricultural college, stating their qualifications. The director will then put them in touch with county agents who know farmers in need of help.

NOMINATE PRESIDENT

Freshman Republicans Debate In Walker Tonight

Delegates from each of the sections of the freshman class will convene tonight at 7 o'clock in the main hall of Walker to nominate a presidential candidate for the Republican ticket. After electing a chairman, the convention will follow as closely as possible the procedure of the real party convention. The committee has secured two members of the Boston Republican Club to address the delegates and to aid in making the meeting realistic.

All those attending will be assigned to tables representing their separate states with votes equal to the actual allotment of those states. This corresponds to the real system of keeping the state delegations intact.

The Republican Club of Boston has been backing the convention and has been lending its help to the committee. After the regular meeting two men from the club will speak.

The vice-chairman of the National Republican Convention of freshmen will call the meeting to order, and "America" will be sung. A photograph of the convention will be taken at this time, and then the delegates will proceed to business. A temporary chairman will be elected. The secretary of the convention will read the call for the meeting, and a permanent chairman will be chosen. Then the nomination speeches will be in order.

After the conclusion of the nomination speeches, the two members of the Boston Republican Club will address the meeting. Seats will be arranged in the balcony for those who are not delegates but wish to attend the convention.
