Community Service, Inc., the successor of War Camp Community Service, which organized so many auxiliary programmes for soldiers and sailors during the war, is assisting the American Olympic Committee in various ways through the country.

The secretary of War has pointed out that the work of the American Olympic Committee is important in the development of the educational and physical effort of the nation.

The American Olympic Committee is identical with those of the Colleges and universities of America.

The man who “goes out for” the Olympic Games is no exception to the other young men of his community, particularly if he makes his mark in the final qualifying tests in Boston in July. It is interesting to see that even when a man has gone across to compete with the best of his own nation, he is still thought of as an appliance from his own home. But even in the Olympic Games, the prestige of the native land is not forgotten.

The athletes who come from other parts of the world to represent their countries do not forget that they are still representatives of their own countries at home. They are willing to fight for glory in other lands, but they are also willing to give their country the best of their abilities.
