MESSAGES TO STUDENTS

R

ECENTLY there have been complaints and students have been heard concerning the policy of the Information Office in referring to and inquiring about the students. A little explanation ought to make their position clear. It was by order of the Administrative Committee of the Institute that this policy was inaugurated and they were forewarned that some of the students continued to abuse the privilege. It has become a nuisance, not to the Information Office itself, but to the people who receive the messages, such as telegrams, notices of sickness or death, or important business calls.

To have the continuity of their lectures disturbed once or twice a week, or being forced to take this action because some students continually abuse the privilege, is something that the Institute that this-111
