ALUMNI NOTES

BECOMES ENGINEER FOR ARABS

The War Office of the British Government has obtained A. E. G. Collins for work in Mesopotamia. He has been given the rank of major in the army to assist in training the armed forces of the country. Collins will take command of a number of emergency officers who will have charge of a group of engineer officers serving in the region of the British forces. Collins does not know the exact nature of his work, but the department in control of that area is in charge of the engineering work on roads, well-draining, and other public works.

ELECTED MOTOR TREASURER

A. E. G. Collins was elected motor treasurer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Alumni Association. He has been treasurer of the association in the past and now has been elected to the position for another term.

COMMUNICATIONS

Dear Sir:

You are to be complimented on your ad in the September issue of The Crimson. The advertisement is in line with the excellent course given by Professor Lewis, and in the view of the student, was successful in the object it had in view.

Very truly yours,
Walter B. Singer.

START COMPETITION

Positions are open on THE TECH for students who can do pencil work, color work, copy writing, or special work. Competition to fill these vacancies starts today. Inquire at room 502 Walker Memorial or at desk in mans lobby.
