MARKSMEN LOSE TO DREXEL INSTITUTE

Yearling Gunners Shoot Well Though Also Beaten

The Technology Rifle Team tasted defeat last Saturday, for the first time in many weeks, being beaten by Drexel Institute. The Drexel score was 499, against a 496 for the Institute.

The next match, the last of the indoor season, is against the University of Pennsylvania, and will be shot this Saturday. Although the University has a very strong team, Manager Lund of the Engineers is confident that his team will make a good showing.

Freshmen Also Trimmed

The freshmen were also the victims of some most efficient shooting on the part of their adversaries, the Harvard freshmen. The crimson cubs in this match turned in a score of 497, which is five points higher than the Harvard varsity team score in their match against the Institute a few weeks ago. The Beaver frosh were not asleep, however, shooting a 494, which is five points better than the highest score made by last year's freshman team.

In a rifle match conducted by telegraph, Ohio State defeated Harvard by a score of 499 to 497.

CANDIDATES FOR FRESHMAN TRACK EXHIBIT ABILITY

New Men Promise to Make Veterans Work for Positions

Several new men have made their appearance in the yearling track and field events. Besides the old timers, some of whom have made changes for better or for worse, these new followers of the sport are hard at work.

Marshall Baldwin, a swimmer on the '25 freshman team that went down to defeat each time, was the only consistent winner. He came through each time in the plunge. Marsh now thinks his weight will be of help to him in the shot put in which he has been doing nicely for a beginner. Ralph Gow, another newcomer, is also teaming up with him in this event.

Winter Squad Men Trying New Ones

Joe Russell, who was a regular freshman jumper last winter, decided to try the high hurdles. He has good speed for this work and is expected to give Cecil Marble a run for his money. Cecil has been doing them for some time and has the form down to a T. Joe needs only a little polishing in the way of form and he will be ready to meet any of them.

Chink Drew is trying his skill on the hammer. With Norman Russell the pair of them should take a few honors in this hefty sky-rocketing. George Caine is proving to be a real trojan as far as work goes. He has taken a liking to the discus and with his conscientious efforts to become an expert in sailing the steel claybird may prove to be a find. Charles Norton has concentrated his attacks on the broad jump. He has the stocky build and speed that goes with a good broad jumper, and for this reason will probably become a regular on the spring squad.

ATHLETIC NOTICES

All men intending to compete in the Interclass Meet on April 17 must turn in their entry at the track house today or tomorrow. No entries will be accepted thereafter.

The Penn Relay Carnival is to be run off with a record entry list this year, 425 colleges and schools being entered in one or more of 85 events.

Track Men Earn Rest Today with Trials Tomorrow

All Entries for Interclass Meet on April 17 Due at Once

TONON GIVES BOLI HOT COMPETITION WITH SPEAR

Today will be a rest day for most of the track candidates because of the fast work scheduled for Saturday but the men deserve it after the stiff training sessions of the past week. Those members of the squad who are to be inoculated for typhoid are expected to take their rest tomorrow and report for practice today, however.

Entries Soon Close for Meet

All entries for the Interclass Meet which is to be held the Monday of Junior Week must be in by tomorrow. Men desiring to compete should sign up in the track house in the book left there for that purpose, signify the event in which they will take part and the class they represent. All members of the track squad are eligible for the meet which Coach Kanaly plans to use as trials for picking the varsity and freshman teams.

Although it is too early in the season to really determine what the men can actually do some of the athletes have been going through some mighty promising workouts. Wednesday afternoon Morris Sheldon surprised Coach Kanaly by clearing eleven feet in the pole vault in spite of the fact that he was in winter training togs with sweater and drawers over his track suit. Sheldon is plainly out to make it three wins in the N. E. championships.

Basketball Star in Javelin Throw

Tillie Tonon, of basketball fame, is back at work as a weight man on the track squad this year. Last season the shot was his specialty but at present his work with the javelin seems to eclipse his efforts in the other event. Tillie has managed to chuck the spear farther than any of the others, excepting only George Boli, who remains supreme. Holt is pressing Tonon for second honors but to date Tillie has a slight advantage in the competition.

And speaking of weight men that brings out the fact that Coach Kanaly is more than pleased with the crop of huskies the yearlings have turned out. Not many times in the history of Technology athletics has a more promising bunch of candidates reported for the freshman team in the weight events, the hammer and shot being best supplied with the javelin and discus not far behind.

It's a rather far cry from weight events to the pole vault but the yearlings have a rather promising though as yet unexperienced vaulter in Payson Hammond. Payson hasn't shown anything phenomenal as yet but with steady work has good chances of improvement. Since the Engineers are losing Sheldon this year the development of a new man to work with Phil Stearns is badly needed.

Frankie Howlett who was sick a good deal during the winter has been training steadily this spring and looks to be in first class condition. According to the dope, Frankie is scheduled to run the 100 and 220 and is expected to account for some Beaver points.

MANY SOPH PLAYERS ON HAND YESTERDAY

First Game for '24 Baseball Team Tomorrow with Employees

The Sophomore baseball men got in a good afternoon's practice yesterday, a large number of men, including several new candidates reporting for the workout. While the men have not had sufficient practice to warrant any predictions as to the make up of the team, Coach Sherman expects to get some organization into the practice this afternoon.

The squad out yesterday included the following: Walt Kennet and Guy Canfield in the box. Bill Sheldon and Mitchelena on the other end of the battery, Clark on first, Earle Bates and Paul Sharkey on second, Phil Robinson and Bill Manning at short, Bill Walterskirchen and Bud Robertson at third, and Delchanty and Ferguson in the field. Several other men have also been out for the outfield positions, and with the material at hand a hard-hitting outfield should be developed. The first contest of the season comes off tomorrow afternoon, when the sophs will run up against the Institute employees, and whether much skill is shown or not, the game should be a hot one.

COMPLETE ORDER OF ELIMINATIONS FOR TENNIS TEAM

Tournament List Now Posted—Only Ground Condition Delay First Matches

The lists of names for the varsity and freshman tennis tournaments are now posted in the M. I. T. A. A. office. The players participating have their choice of both time and place for the matches that have been drawn up by the management. The varsity list follows: M. L. Tressel vs Jack Gardner; Philip Cohen vs J. Reigal; P. F. Marrs vs S. Gordon; O. N. Stewart vs L. S. McLane; R. W. Kenison vs M. H. Finley; Jerome J. Taylor vs Wm. E. Cooper; H. F. Hayden vs J. R. Kingham; W. A. Harding vs C. L. Dunn; H. P. Kurzman vs Stuart Gourley; Erwin Schoeffel vs R. DeR. Brower; David Evans vs I. D. Chambers; Edward Lucy vs B. P. Lane; George Clifford, M. M. DeLugach, A. M. Lifchitz, and B. B. Zavoico each drew a bye.

Freshman List Almost Complete

With the exception of a few who are handing in their names from day to day, the freshmen have almost completed their list of entrants. Those who are already entered will play matches as given below. C. E. Keniston vs M. A. Shikes; G. H. Fuller vs F. N. Cheever; E. R. Harris vs F. W. Preston; H. W. Cox vs P. Glasson; R. G. King vs T. D. Storie; P. L. Miller vs S. Glaser; E. MacKibben vs M. B. Frost; J. Graham vs M. L. Radostovich; D. R. Taber vs E. B. Barker; C. P. Worthington vs J. K. Peck; H. Browning vs J. E. Sutcliffe; C. H. Bowles vs R. C. Mader; M. T. Freeman vs J. W. Boid; Shedd Vandenberg drew a bye.

Best Two Out of Three to Win

Three sets will determine the winner of each match. The entry winning two sets remains on the list and will play the winner of another match. As soon as the ground conditions in the various courts of the city will permit play, returns of the matches will make it possible to form an estimate of the calibre of the fresh material trying out for positions on the team.

It is hoped that the Jarvis Field courts will be sufficiently in shape next week to allow both practice games and elimination matches. Until the moisture and softness of the courts is eliminated, no specific date can be determined upon.

HENRY PIERCE WILL WRITE TRACK ARTICLES

A special feature of the sports news of next week will be two articles on Technology's track team by Henry C. Pierce '20, former Technology varsity captain. Hank has been watching the squad this year during its practice sessions and his knowledge of college track athletics make him a good judge of the situation. He will summarize the work of the winter season and compare the Beaver's chances in the New England championships with those of the other entries.

Want More Freshman Managers

There is still a dearth of applicants for the position of freshman manager of tennis. Any students desiring experience in such lines are welcomed and are to hand in their names as soon as possible, says the management. A poster calling attention to a meeting to be held next week for freshman manager candidates will be placed on the bulletin board. Competition will begin immediately thereafter and the two successful will automatically rate as assistant managers of tennis next year.
