CAPTAIN LENESE BEST FROSH HOPE IN MEET MONDAY

Freshman Leader Has Chance to Score in Mile in Interclass Race

Freshman prospects for the Interclass Meet Monday are not particularly favorable. However, comment has been made on the yearling captain's chances in the mile run. Captain Lenese has been showing up so well in practice that he has been picked to place. Elmer Sanborn will have no trouble in showing his heels to George, while Poor should beat him according to the dope available. That leaves third place open for Captain George who will have to contest for it with Vodner, the third best varsity hope in this event.

will be the trustees and custodians of the cup and will be appointed as administrators with the duty of enforcing exact adherence to the rules of award. The Executive Committee of the M. I. T. A. A. is designated as the Committee of Award. In case of a dispute the Advisory Council and the Committee of Award shall act jointly.

Beginning September 21, 1922, the entire year will be divided into quarters at William and Mary College, making the terms on a quarter instead of the semester basis.

roof of the Technique hut at one minute intervals. The Fox and Pathe Film Corporations have been notified and will have their cameramen on hand to take movies of the parade and Rush.

Many inquiries have been received by the Board about the time and place for the distribution of the book. They will be distributed to holders of paid in full receipts immediately after the close of the Rush. After the last paddle has been given out, there will be two lines formed on the main steps. One will go to the information office and the other to the booth in the center of the main lobby.

Rules of the Rush Are Announced.

Today is the last opportunity to redeem signups so that the book can be obtained tomorrow. The booth in the main lobby will be open from 9 to 5 o'clock for the payment of the redemption price of $2.50. The books will be distributed tomorrow as quickly as possible to holders of the blue cards.

The rules for the Rush have been announced to be as follows: Participants in the Rush must wear old clothes and tennis shoes and, as has been announced before, must have a paid in full signup. A man who keeps a paddle in his possession until he reaches the ground will be considered the winner of the paddle. It will be against the rules to take a paddle away from a man who has reached the ground with it. Members of the Board will be on hand to settle questions of this sort; their decisions will be final.

W. F. UHL LECTURES TO CIVIL ENGINEERS

Engineering in South Africa Is Subject of Talk at Smoker

W. F. Uhl gave an illustrated lecture Wednesday evening at the Civil Engineering smoker on "Engineering in South Africa." The particular types of engineering emphasized were the hydro-electric and transportation.

The physical features of the country were the special points that the expedition of which he was head, had been sent out to study. The situation in Africa at this time was briefly this—mineral deposits of much value had been discovered in the Congo, but to develop these successfully, power houses and railroads had to be built. As a result, foreign interests had engaged the Charles T. Main company to make investigations as to the conditions in that vicinity.

Technology Man in Expedition

In 1920, this expedition, with a senior from Technology, set out. The route was by way of Capetown and then up into the heart of Central Africa. They found the water-ways un-navigable after a short distance from the source, and only by trekking was it possible to reach their objective. The climate, even though at the equator, was quite comfortable, owing to the high altitude, Central Africa being a series of high plateaus. In fact the thermometer went as low as 40 degrees at night.

A very complete set of slides on engineering problems, natives, tropical curiosities, and various interesting features were shown. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the lecture.

PROM VOO DOO REVIEWED BY PROF. E. E. ROGERS

which for beauty and attractiveness in the drawings and real skill in the 'dirool' (as we believe it is called) will be very hard to match in any American college.

We understand that two members of the academic profession, in conference, decided that the famous Girls' Number was a real contribution to current Sociology. It is enough to say that the present issue is not inferior in that respect. It will be criticized, perhaps justly. The artist of the colorful cover has not yet learned, apparently, that recent advices from Paris and New York upon the spring fashions teach us that the long skirt has come to stay—in fashionable, even if not in technological circles. Freshman, of course, growing still greener with the Spring, will enter their caveats on this and that. Conservatives will sign 'Pro Bono Publico' to impassioned letters against the keen and stimulating editorial (from a new angle, too) on the essential value of Scott Nearing as a teacher. These may be expected and disregarded.

What may not be disregarded, however, are the unusually beautiful and craftsmanlike drawings in pen and ink by a new and anonymous hand, the "Beaver" heading, the full page entitled "The First Voodoo", that Life itself might be proud to print, and one or two others not less interesting. Kane has a page of funny and recognizable impressions of the Show rehearsals; Elmer and Kane furnish their full quota of daintily drawn and alluring impressions of the modern girl, the 1922 model of the ewige weibliche; and there is a nice spring-time setting for the one really lovely lyric "Victorian," anonymous but unmistakable to anyone who knows the present board.

The 'drool' contains a lot of things that amuse (at least they amuse us) in which the retiring Managing Editor, one of the most gifted and promising humorists we have seen for a long time among the younger set, turns loose his serio-comic Pegasus, with considerable satiric effectiveness. Besides the editorials, the opening ballade, the Calendar, the self-analysis of the state of mind of a Show author, and the final bit of verse with its sly dig pointing the pathos, all deserve honorable mention. And no less, perhaps, the contributions by A. R. B. (the skit on the General Bulletin), M. O'B., H. A. M. will add to the mirth of Prom Week.

All in all, this year's work of Hodgins, Johnson, Elmer, Kane and company, not forgetting the unsung busy end, has set a standard for intelligent, craftsmanlike, clean-cut and conscientious attempt to produce a college humorous magazine, cleverly written, well-edited and charmingly illustrated, that should make every Tech man, young and old, proud of our talent, actual and latent, here at M. I. T. The Architects, we understand, are to do the next issue all by themselves. Well they will have their hands full to beat this. We hope they will.

On the whole, we (editorially speaking) think the Prom girls will like it! Than which

MENORAH TO DINE

The Menorah Society of the Institute is to hold a banquet on May 1 at north hall of Walker Memorial. Several prominent speakers have been obtained, including Professor Lyons, a professor of semetic languages at Harvard, Judge Mack of Chicago, and Dr. Husishkin, who has recently returned from Palestine and who is interested in the development of a new university there.

Further program includes music and a recitation by a student from the Emerson School. Menorah Societies from other colleges in Boston have been invited.

Tickets may be obtained from David Kaufman '23, S. M. Seegal '22, and Phillip Caplain '22.

E. E. SOCIETY TO HOLD SMOKER THURSDAY

Speakers and Wireless Music on Program—Appoint Committee

Next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Electrical Engineering Society will hold its second meeting of the term. The chief purpose of the meeting, which will be held in the north hall, is to appoint a nomination committee. It will not be strictly a business meeting, but will take the form of a smoker, at which Mr. E. L. Bowles of the Electrical Engineering Department will give a talk. The officers of the society are in charge of the affair.

Mr. Bowles' talk will be based on the subject of radio communication. A long range set has been procured for the evening, and the speech will consist largely of a detailed description of this set. A loud-speaker used in connection with the other apparatus will provide radio music for the gathering. Mr. Bowles is now in charge of the Radio Department of The Boston Transcript, and is an expert on this subject. In addition to his talk, there will be a man from the American Institute of Electrical Engineers who will tell some of the advantages of belonging to that organization. The usual refreshments and smokes will be on hand.

The Electrical Society is somewhat behind most of the other societies in making its elections for the coming year. The nomination committee appointed at this smoker will nominate men for all offices of the club. The elections will take place about a week later.

The Women's Self-Government Association of the University of Minnesota conducts weekly classes in dancing. University women furnish both the instruction and the music.
