

Technology Soccer Team Invades Soldiers Field This Afternoon

Technology's soccer team plays Harvard University on Soldier's field at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Captain Macorra's eleven after its fine showing against Clark College, in the opening game, is anxious to test its strength in a match with more serious opposition and is likely to find that opposition today. The Crimson players conquered the strong Springfield outfit by a 4 to 1 score, and have also trimmed Amherst, 4 to 2.

Coach Welch's forward line is reported to be very evenly balanced, every one of the men having shot at least one goal. Captain Heizer, center forward, is the University's greatest threat, having a total of three points to his credit.

The Institute's forwards worked together very smoothly last Saturday, and this team work combined with the individual experience of the men, should make Harvard work to repeat the victory it scored last season by a 2 to 1 score. From Arthur Sun, on the

In the back field both teams will depend on well seasoned material. Atahualpa is probably the outstanding player on the Technology defense.

Ed Farrel Expects Us to Be Optimistic

BEFORE we had a chance to say a word at Soldiers Field yesterday afternoon, Coach Eddie Farrell, of the Harvard cross country team, shot us the greeting, "So you think you're going to give us a fine lacing." Evidently the crimson tutor had it all set in his mind that Technology had been busily counting the c. c. eggs that are to be hatched this afternoon and was quite surprised to find that the Engineers are expecting a hard battle. Ed continued as we went in out of the chilliness, "You've got a good team, a veteran team, and you showed it at Cornell. I have several good track distance men, but are they going to do well over a six mile course? I'm sure I don't know. The same goes for Dartmouth, in my opinion."

Manager Lewisohn, of Dartmouth, said last night, "Hope is about all we've got, I guess, but we're certainly going to make it a good race." In answer to a question about his opinion of the course the manager said, "I think it's a tough, rough round, not quite as many hills as the Hanover course but a lot steeper."

Seven Meets Now on Gym Schedule

This year the gym team's schedule, as at present tentatively arranged, includes three trips and four home meets. These are as follows:

Trips—Navy at Annapolis, Princeton at Princeton, Dartmouth at Dartmouth. Home meets—Dual meet with Harvard, Dual meet with Yale, Triangular meet with University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, and Technology. Dual meet with Haverford College.

Practice starts the first Monday after Field Day. According to Manager J. R. Lehrer, Mr. Edward Hinks will probably be coach of this year's team. Mr. Hinks coached the gym team year before last.

Manager Lehrer requests all men interested in gym to sign up on the bulletin board in the main lobby immediately, so that an idea of the size of the squad may be obtained. Sophomores and freshmen who intend to come out for the position of assistant manager of the gym team should report to manager in the M. I. T. A. A. office on the third floor of Walker Memorial between 5 and 6 o'clock any afternoon.

Seven Veteran Varsity Boxers Ready to Fight

The Institute boxing season officially opened yesterday with the return of Coach Nap Boutellier. The varsity look-out is quite promising with seven members of last year's squad back for the fistic game. Al Lindsey, who covered the 115 pound berth for the Beavers is on the look-out for further honors in that class. The 125 pound class, usually the most promising as regards candidates, is coveted by both G. Wenfick and Al Warren. Warren boxed in the elimination bouts of the last three years in the 145 pound weight but this summer lost weight enough in work to be eligible for the 125 pound position. Wenfick is a fourth year man but has not come out before for the Technology aggregation.

Lew Phillips who won top honors in a 135 pound capacity in Australia, taking the championship in that class, and filling the same berth mightly successfully for the Institute boxers, will officiate in the same class this year. Lew is in the pink of condition and has been working out since his return to school with Ed Moll, Beaver boxing captain, who fought in the 145 pound class for the last two years. Joe Horgan and Red Sayre are in the running for the 160 pound weight, while Joe Schultz will probably look for honors in the same place.

Freshman candidates haven't been coming out in the numbers Coach Boutellier expects. So far, berths in the 115 pound and 125 pound class have been applied for. Donovan and Edwards are the respective contenders. The other positions have not had the contestants desired, so Coach Boutellier will be in the boxing room next week on Tuesday and Friday to give instruction to either men out for positions on the boxing teams or those desiring to have more than a nodding acquaintance with the fistic art.

Bill Bingham Offers Cup for Today's Race

This afternoon's triangular clash between Harvard, Dartmouth, and Technology will be run for a trophy presented by Bill Bingham, assistant graduate manager of athletics at Harvard University. Mr. Bingham has offered the silver cup which has been on exhibition for the past few days in Leavitt and Peirce's window at Harvard Square to the winning team. Harvard has been particularly generous in providing cups for her races against the Institute harriers. The Crimson is represented by a fast team today and so Manager Bingham may not be making another addition to the trophy room in Walker Memorial.

Harvard Plays Big Green Team Tomorrow

Harvard plays another of its big games tomorrow when it meets the Big Green team from Dartmouth in the Stadium. Dartmouth lost to Vermont last week but all its regulars came through without injury and are out to win this week. The Green coaches have put their charges through a strenuous week's training and are prophesying a real game for the powerful Crimson eleven. Hanover will be a deserted place Saturday as practically the whole college will follow the team to Boston. This is the first meeting of the two teams in ten years and will doubtless prove as big a drawing card as the Centre game.

BROWN ELEVEN MEETS FRESHMEN

which always characterizes the field day teams.

In the line, little change could be made in the way of improvement. Either Isart or Ridley will start at right end, and either Wilmot or Rodgers at left; all four of the ends are fast on breaking through and on covering punts, and are sure to fill the positions well. Steam Harrison has no opposition for the right tackle berth, and his weight will count.

Either Reed or Walworth will go in at left tackle, Reed being slightly the favorite due to his experience with the Yale frosh last fall; Walworth has been making a strong bid for the post. The guard positions are still being scrapped for by Wilman, Brand, Manning, and Bill Gorsuch, and all of them have the weight and spirit necessary. Callahan will hold down the pivot position. He distinguished himself in last week's tussle by making some of the best running tackles seen on the field; he was also picked by Jim, the cartoonist of The Tech, as the Techites Mint-Stick, a penalty for appearing in a Deer Island costume.

The same backfield as that which routed Jumbo will operate against Bruin. Charley Bianchi, a transfer from Purdue, will run the eleven from the quarterback position, and his work last week rates him as more than fair. Johnny Deignan will be in at full again, and can be counted on to find the holes in the Brown defense if they are to be found. The halfbacks available are Ernie DuPont, Bill Johnson, McGrew, and Meytrot, who make up a fast combination that can be counted on to gain ground consistently.

On the whole, the 1922 eleven looks like one that may be counted on to turn in the goods, and while a win against Brown is problematical, the eleven is good enough to merit support.

- The frosh will line as follows:
- r.c. Isart or Ridley
  - r.t. Harrison
  - r.g. Wilman or Brand
  - c. Callahan
  - l.g. Manning or Gorsuch
  - l.t. Reed or Walworth
  - l.e. Wilmot or Rodgers
  - q.b. Bianchi
  - r.h.b. DuPont or Meytrot
  - l.h.b. McGrew or Johnson
  - l.b. Deignan

SOPHOMORE FOOTBALL TEAM PLAYS LOWELL

The Sophomore football team will travel to Lowell tomorrow afternoon to play the Lowell Textile Institute eleven. The coaches say that the line up they will use greatly depends on which players show up at North Station.
