THE TIME TO START

THE song committee has announced that the second installment of Alma Mater songs is due on February 22.

The rules governing the competition intentionally have been made liberal, even allowing the submittal of songs the music for which has been copied from melodies now in existence.

With the liberality in the choice of material and with the large amount of time remaining, prospective song-writers should find nothing but encouragement in their efforts.

SELF EFFACEMENT

FOR some unknown reason Technology students seem determined to remain incognito. Photography is an old and established art; the chemical reactions of the process are familiar to all of us.

The present Senior Class has never been excelled in the history of mankind for personal pulchritude, and yet about half the members have refrained from allowing Technique 1922 to take their pictures.

The Lounger is in an agitated frame of mind. Just as the new buildings have about reached the limit of their settling tendencies, and just after the Tech runners have made a sensation beating Cornell something always has to happen to spoil it all.

In the second place, the Lounger is nervous on account of the great responsibility which will rest on him after he is an Alumnus. One little mistake—the mere omission of the crossing of a T, the substitution of a comma for a semi-colon, the wearing of a straw hat after the fifteenth of September, or the mistaking of a Walton meal for a case of excelsior,—just one of these things, and Tech's reputation is forever ruined.

And so on. It appears that something is not right. The Lounger is not making any personal remarks about Mr. Burtner, even if he did make an immense miscalculation.

Only four more days now until the frosh and Sophs have their annual fray to decide on the best way to distribute a total of thirteen points between them. This opportunity is welcomed by all those, including the Lounger, who lost out in the World's Series and the Harvard-Centre game a week ago Saturday.

The Lounger wonders how many extra help the Lenox will lay in for Friday night. He advises a carload of new dishes and glasses.

NOTICES FOR UNDERGRADUATES

The night editor in charge of the next issue of THE TECH is J. P. Ramsey Jr., telephone Univ. 6053-R. All matters pertaining to the issue should be referred to him.

A book has been lost from the main library, the title of which is, "The Theory of Sound" by Lord Rayleigh. Volume 2, 1896. Any information concerning this volume will be welcomed by R. P. Bigelow, librarian.

Stylus will hold a meeting this afternoon at five o'clock in the west lounge of Walker. It is important that all TECH and T. E. N. members should attend.

Members of the Mechanical Engineering Society who are taking the General Electric trip this afternoon will meet in the main lobby at 12:45 o'clock. There are places for six more men.

Freshman Cheer Leaders will report in room 10-267, at 5 o'clock today.

The last chance for 1925 and 1926 relay men to procure tickets for Tech Night will be at the track house from the manager in charge at 5 o'clock today.

Tech Show Orchestra will rehearse in north hall of Walker today at 5 o'clock.

The Lounger is sorry for the two days he missed last week. It wasn't his fault tho. He was all ready for print on each occasion, but there was an overabundance of news, and news must come first.

LATIN AMERICAN CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR YEAR

The Latin American Club started its list of events for the year with a smoker which was held a week ago last Friday. The purpose of the affair was to cause all members, new and old, to become better acquainted with each other.

BRITISH EMPIRE CLUB CANCELS YEARLY BALL

Professor Langley Elected as Honorary President

The British Empire Club will not hold their Armistice Night Ball this year on account of the new ruling that no dances can be run after 12:00 o'clock in Walker Memorial.

The club has a large membership this year, its members coming from England, India, Canada, and other more remote parts of the British Empire. Several of the faculty are members of the club.

PROF. LIPKA RECEIVES AN HONORARY DEGREE

Returns to Technology After Stay of Many Months in Europe

After a 16 months' stay in Europe, Professor Joseph Lipka, professor of mathematics at the Institute, recently returned to again take up his duties as an instructor.

During his travels he spent nine months in the University of Rome studying mathematical physics and mathematics. His wife, who accompanied him on his entire trip abroad, also attended this institution, studying the History of Art.

University of Padua Confers Degree At the celebration of the 700th anniversary of the founding of the University of Padua, he was the delegate from Technology.

He is glad to be back in America and at the Institute where in the near future he will again start his slide rule classes as he already has his mathematical laboratory and mathematics classes.
