"ANNA CHRISTI" SHOWN AT FLYINGTHEATRE

As Anna Christie is a drama in which he depicts a class that is not understood by the very ones who criticize it, the opening night of this opera at the Flying Theatre was a tremendous success. The cast was chosen by the director with care and the result is a production that is both entertaining and thought-provoking.

"LA ROSEBEE" SUNG AT BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

Last Monday evening, a large audiience witnessed the presentation of one of the most beautiful operas ever seen on American soil, "La Rosebee." This opera offers a fine opportunity for the study of good singing and emotional acting. The opening night was not without its faults, but the first act, in the garb of the four scenes, was good enough to make the best of it. The last act was not so bad after all, but the opera was not without its weak points. However, with the exception of the very touching duo songs, it was a great success.
