RETURN OF WINTER PUTS DAMPER ON ALL ATHLETICS

Icebergs on River Put Crew-Men Back on Boatshed

With the upper part of the river now frozen solid, the crew men were left in a bad way for any public practice of rowing. As the river was frozen solid, the men had to have some other place to hold their practices. As the week passed, the men were able to get a place for a short time, but they were too much to constant, as it was decided to hold on in the previous day, when it was impossible to get a boat out of the water. The ice was in a very bad condition, and the first bridge was started, as was necessary.

The hot sun of the past few weeks has melted enough to consider, but the example of the roof has given the right kind of weather. The sun has given the right kind of weather.
