DIFERING OPINIONS ON CAPS AND GOWNS

One of the Rivers--"I have inquired around among students in my course and find that almost everyone approves of the present plan of the Committee. A Course X. 5 Senior student--"I don't wear a cap and gown if they make me, but I resist the attempt of the class officers to force me to do so."

Majority of students Apper Indifferent

Revisions Petition does not get signatures--Class Decision Unchanged

"In the absence of caps and gowns," said L. B. Hill, "head of the dress committee," "the class decided in favor of wearing them, because the committee promised that they would not be required. Furthermore, the president has enough of a right on their behalf, to press their views on him."

The important fact is that the question was submitted to the class as a whole for a decision. This affected not only the present class, but all those who are to graduate before the 20th of June, 1899, who may choose to wear the cap and gown. In the absence of the cap and gown, the school will present the students in the following way:

From a Physical expert--"I would like to give caps and gowns to those who are the best students."

A Chemist believes--"It is the spirit of the sacrifice which counts."

A Banker--"I have worn a cap and gown when I graduated from high school. They're too damn uncomfortable."