The Sophomore Class is not asleep. In response to suggestions that definite action of some sort is needed a committee has been established to give thought to the matter. It was decided that the first of the year's freshman class is properly and efficiently organized. The committee has already

The committee acted especially in providing that the

The Juniors in charge must reconcile these two factors. They

They must arrange the freshman's interest in activities, yet at the same time see that he does not neglect his studies. If they can do this,

The Juniors have a serious responsibility upon their shoulders. They

The Juniors are not wholly to blame. Many of the schedules cards on the outside of the various classroom doors are incorrect. Perhaps the intercoms will never be entirely eliminated and the system never be as satisfactory and that is in use in hospitals where a lighted sign outside of the room signifies the desire of the occupant to have an attendant. At some time it seems that we will have cards on the doors and the exercise of a little discretion on the part of the Juniors, the trouble can be reduced to an insignificant mini-
