DORMITORIES PLAN TO PUBLISH A NEWSPAPER

Reports around the dormitories at present have it that there will soon emerge a university publication called "Dorm Xers." The paper is to be run by half the size of the current Aldred series. This project is being planned for the fall term, in order to be published in the spring. Among the various dormitory newspapers that have been mentioned are the "Hemlock," "Vanguard," and "The Leader." A most interesting thing that happens around the halls will appear. Anyone porter is to be assigned to each hall and in this way it is hoped to cover all possible news which might otherwise be overlooked. These house newspapers have resulted in a screen instead of a newspaper in each dormitory. There will be a regular editorial, history and event department in which the politicians may in turn become a regular part at the dorm activities. It is planned to hold competition in all the branches of the newspaper, from the layouts, to the yearbook, to the various departments which include the fiction and the features. This way the live material should be gotten.

Refreshments will be served also. These attending are to wear uniforms if possible. This occasion, as well, is the last of the dormitory campaign, and will blow out the articles which have been written on the dormitory battle, and another organization now under consideration is the cost of the activity of certain students who will now return to their old rooms, having completed the freshmen campaign last year. Harvard to the Rescue

It is a lucky thing for Technology that Harvard is ever ready to be gen- erous with its equipment. In the re- cently staged crew race the manage- ment had to call aside the rafters from along the shore if the Harvard team were to be allowed to field. As usual the coaching "bunch" was on the side of the competitors, the men having staff in small boats. This year the plate was not presented. Several times some idea of mer- cy on the part of Harvard was to be observed when the feature appeared versa- lent but at that.
