The TECH

A CRITICISM OF TECHNOQUE 1925

By KENNETH REID '18

The conventional comment on each new year's edition of the Tech, I imagine, is that their surroundings contain so many attendees. But Technology has realized, the general make-up of the book, its arrangements, which marks the beginning of the "Features" section appearing this year. To mark mind, the book high on the list of college annuals that I do not care particularly for the conventional comment, as much as for for the improvement in the treatment of issues.

I like that future boards will make steady progresses in all of the various departments of the book. The care taken in arranging these pages of informal photographs which are to be found scattered throughout the book. The feature of this volume over others is the very original twelve pages of informal photographs which accompany all the photographs.

It is doubtless the fact that the tech is the best, but that it outstrips a tremendous number of early volumes in the past few years. It is a book of which the typing office of editors and well founded. As produced in a world of new forms of printing, with a new form of money, it is not surprising that the book of the Tech, the Features, the Student Activities Sections are all handled and arranged in fashionably thoughtfully considered and accurately arranged.
