OUR NEW ELECTORAL SYSTEM

A little lessateness on the part of a few unhindering students will enable the Walker librarian, Mrs. King, to get along with the necessary work.

THE NEED OF SLEEP

Many a student today is blundering his night of ambition on Spring Fling. Never when it is really caused by insufficient sleep. Now that examinations are drawing near, every one of us should try to keep in the best possible physical trim. There is a great temptation to sleep during the day in the same way as one's neighbors always do. The Red Sox this year, or his last trip to Smith, and then, almost subconsciously, to remember that the afternoon must be done before thinking of sleep. He will start to work, and if he has no one to sit-in-what the average man, he will meditate through the homework assignments and get to bed in the small hours of the morning.

The day will be more vividly and mentally sluggish. He will curse out every professor, in whose class he has to try to keep up with his college lecture program. He will sleep through his class in his chair and sit on the middle of his back, waiting for the bell to ring. That is not the way to keep a man's mind on the subject. He will fail his classes and lose his chances of returning to another city on the next day.

The question is: How to avoid that? That is not the way to keep a man's mind on the subject. He will fail his classes and lose his chances of returning to another city on the next day.
