A Record of C. J. Everett '26 .....

News Service in all the phases of Institute life.

A. V. A. M. FL GC.

D. A. Henderson '25 ...............

crew is discussed.

R-A. Rothschild '25

ans dwell,

Asparagus, comes to

sulted Asparagus,

and is unable to account for

passed on silently, fulness. The men who

--- -C -----

This surprised

cotashl" cried

and finally

dav·. isn't it?" merely

examis are upon them

'rect that

wrong with them except

fact

The Lounger, in

That

many ways.

News

Night Editors

C. Eaton '27

Reporters

HebrFid 7

F. E. McCulloch '26

W. F. McCornack '26

W. H. Good '27

R. K. Doten '27

W. H. Boyd '27

R. A. McCord '27

W. H. Brown '27

--- Leaves of Absence.

In Charge of This Issue

E. C. Corrler '27

A RESUME

NOW that the events of the college year can be viewed in perspective, the trend of Institute life is seen to be moving upward. The year shows evidence of more vigor, more interest, better sports, and completely new results of scholarship.

While of course the inherent quality of the faculta-

ty makes it progress, its meaningfulness is not unusual. It is a variable of the interest of the student body in all the phases of Institute life.

Thus the student interest has been held at a "peak," this year has been enjoyed in many ways. Of course the unsupervised sport gives creature to the thrill of the year, and perhaps, with the latent capacity in, to generally concealed, this "stagnating" body of the student life.

Week, not to mention the soccer and tennis teams, and many another competeable participations.

Construcive advances in other lines such as the stollvment of

The high improvement of the electrical system, and improvement in the Institute Committee have been made and are working out interest. It cannot be too strongly driven home that the climax of the whole College year is studently understood support upon which depends lethargy with action that achieves a concrete end and then aids and assimilates this accomplishment of the year in the spirit of the student body.

For too many are not, and among this group lies the possibility of continuing the trend upward next year. Twenty-five per cent more men in Institute activities would work a tremendous improvement, and efforts should be made to arouse these.

CHEER UP

NOW that examinations are at hand once more, men are beginning to wear a troubled air. They always get groggy around examination time. It is a very bad habit, as they are apt to approach their work in the wrong frame of mind. They consider all subject matter to be important, forgetting a request for forgetning, not to dodge it. This may sound like an old story, but its importance lies in the fact that one who chooses to period will have a very beneficial effect. A man is far more likely to pass a test if he goes into it with a clear head.

He will make it more than likely that he goes into it with the "This is going to be the hardest exam I've ever had" attitude, and will be able to concentrate on the problems.

be optimistic. Hope that you are going to pass, even if you are not quite sure. Set a good example, and encourage those about you. Don't get too glum about it. It will do a lot of harm and no good. What hasn't you if you should flunk an exam? Others have done it before and survived. Your chances of passing is a great deal better if you go it with a brand new on your face instead of the customary examination scowl, so forget all your worries, and his exams back, but with a smile.

The upperclassmen are the wardrobes around the Institute. The other clothes are usually considered as a second order of customs.

The men who usually buy their clothes in a store seldom do so.

Continued on Page 4